Wheat Acreage Reduction Move Launched

Canada Asked To Join World-wide Grain Quota Plan

U.S. Government Proposes Agreement to Limit Wheat Areas Include Australia, Argentina and Russia

Prairie Leaders Welcome Scheme

Canadian Press

Washington, March 15.—The United States Government is seeking a world-wide agreement with Canada, Australia, Argentina, Russia and the Balkans to limit production of wheat.

Unofficial discussions which have taken place so far are understood to have included a conference between Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, and President Roosevelt, as well as conversations between the Minister and Secretary of State Hull.

The proposal is expected to be made the subject of further diplomatic conversations, culminating if possible in an agreement at the World Economic Conference in London this Summer.

QUOTAS PROPOSED

The plan, broadly, is to set fixed quotas of wheat which may be produced each year by the great wheat countries.

Similar international agreements regarding other agricultural products may be undertaken later, although plans regarding them have not yet taken definite shape.

The United States itself will be taking definite action to reduce its production of wheat and other products if Congress enacts the farm relief legislation which is to be asked shortly in a special message by President Roosevelt.

Among its principal features is expected to be authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to lease from farmers a part of their land to take it out of production.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS

In the past numerous attempts have been made to get international agreement to limit wheat production in the several countries, but definite action to this end was prevented partly because the United States had taken no definite step to reduce its own output.

The fact the United States has no diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia, a major wheat producing country, has Reciprocal Tariff Efforts In U.S.

Government Studying Plans to Alter Trade Relations With Canada and Other Countries

EARLY ACTION ON TARIFF PACTS

Washington, March 15.—State Department officials indicated to-day that if possible reciprocal tariff agreements with various nations would be worked out in advance of the World Economic Conference to be held in London this summer.

Associated Press

New York, March 15.—Henry Chalmers of Washington, chief of the foreign tariff division of the United States Commerce Department, to-day told the annual meeting of export executives the government was working "full tilt" on a reciprocal tariff programme.

One plan under consideration, he said, was an arrangement of "executive agreements" with other countries to be worked out by the President or his representatives within limits to be set by Congress and possibly subject to congressional veto.

Chalmers said the former Secretary of Commerce, Roy D. Chapin, had put tariff experts at work some time ago on a reciprocal tariff programme to help the Roosevelt administration get a "flying start."

Dictator Dolfuss Has Opposition Ejected From Austrian Parliament Buildings

Associated Press

Vienna, March 15.—State police raided the Austrian Parliament this afternoon and forcibly interrupted an attempt by the political opposition to hold a rump session in defiance of Chancellor Dolfuss and President Miklas.

Parliament was disrolved more than a week ago when its three ranking officers resigned, following a dispute over wages paid by the state railways. The Chancellor thereupon assumed dictatorial powers, but opposition leaders this morning announced Parliament would meet this afternoon.

POLICE ON DAIS

Police were stationed in the meeting hall, several of them on the dais to block the speaker's chair, but a small group of the opposition appeared, quickly declared themselves met, and adjourned before they could be driven out.

When the hall was finally cleared the police remained in possession. Troops were hurried to strategic points about the city in anticipation of trouble. The most serious threat was that of a general strike by the Socialist labor union.

DEFENCE OPENS, EVE ON STAND

Wife Also Enters Box to Testify for Accused in Arson Trial

Panel Painting Destroyed; Cherished as Old Master; Worth Probably $50,000

The defence opened its case at the beginning of the third day of the trial of Ernest Eve on a charge of arson to-day before Chief Justice Morrison and an Assize Court jury.

"Did you do anything knowingly to cause that fire?" H. A. Maclean, K.C., defence counsel with Gordon A. Cameron, asked Mr. Eve, after he had been sworn in the witness box.

"No, sir, I did not," replied Mr. Eve.

Asked about his theory of how the fire started at his home at 933 Empress Avenue at midnight on September 14 last, Mr. Eve replied:

"I think the fire in the furnace became excessive because of the papers having the oil on it. It was the first time the furnace had been lighted during the summer, and as a result there was much dust on top of the furnace and when it was lighted there was a sort of explosion of it. I think the fire blew up through the register and it ignited the celluloid and the gramophone records and other things there that would cause a very intense heat."

MR. EVE'S THEORY

As for the oil on the building paper, Mr. Eve said his theory of how it came to be there was it came down from the three-quarter-gallon vessel of an oil mixture he had stored in the upper room and which was upset and spilled when the fire burned through the ceiling.

"There were a thousand and one ways in which the fire could have started," Mr. Eve went on. "That is only my theory."

P. J. Sinnott, lawyer, came forward and voluntarily took the stand in Mr. Eve's defence to-day, to confirm the theory that the fire in the Eve home had probably started from the furnace. Mr. Sinnott told of his experience in his own home with a furnace of exactly the same type as that in the Eve home and located in a similar position in the house.

Prosecutor H. W. R. Moore objected to Mr. Sinnott taking the stand as an expert on furnaces, as he was a barrister.

B.C.'S DEBT $154,000,000

Grew at Approximately $1,000,000 a Month During 1932

The total gross debt of British Columbia at November 1, 1932, was $154,829,704. It increased during the year at a rate of approximately $1,000,000 a month, it was shown to the Legislature to-day when Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, delivered his budget speech.

The gross debt on November 1, 1931, was $142,461,483, showing the exact increase to be $12,368,220.

Mr. Jones reported the direct funded debt $124,670,236; treasury bills (to Dominion $5,134,164, to bank $4,536,779.30), $9,670,943.30; B.C. House mortgage (London), $128,525; P.G.E. Railway (guaranteed stock), $20,160,000.

Included in the gross debt were self-supportin items aggregating $5,030,608.60 and sinking funds established in connection with direct obligations and P. G. E. Railway guaranteed stock amounting to $29,177,037.61, together making $34,207,646.27.

The net debt as at November 1, 1932, was therefore $120,622,058.03.

BORROWINGS

Regarding the increase in the gross debt the minister reported borrowings during the twelve months as follows: to finance deficits in part, $1,742,853.73; for maintenance of P.G.E. Railway, $242,248.65; for construction of highways and highway bridges, $1,317,197.48; for advances and improvements in connection with the University Hill townsite, $201,970.56; for completion of construction of buildings, $212,459.56; advances to irrigation districts, $90,624.39; and the financing of unemployment relief costs required borrowings of $8,922,566.53—a total of $12,729,920.90.

Attention was directed to the fact that no new capital construction work had been undertaken during 1932 and

TAX PENALTY CUT FAVORED

Legislative Committee Approves Principle of Victoria Motion

After listening to a forceful appeal by Mayor Leeming of Victoria the municipal committee of the B.C. Legislature this morning endorsed the principle of a motion of the B.C. Union of Municipalities to give relief to taxpayers in arrears.

The resolution called for cutting in half the penalty on delinquent payments. Home-owners were struggling hard to protect their houses and business property owners were having a hard fight, the mayor said. At the rate taxes on vacant property were falling in arrears there was a danger of the city owning all of it in three years.

An application for the right of municipalities to collect license fees from beer parlors was held over for consideration after Reeve Heald of Esquimalt had referred to the extra policing cost they placed upon municipalities.

Sympathy was expressed with Esquimalt in its appeal to the Dominion Government for a special grant in view of the untaxable Dominion Government property in the municipality.

Victoria's application for permission to give relief on corner boulevard taxes was held for consideration.

A resolution seeking power to restrict reconstruction of wooden buildings destroyed by fire was held for consideration later.

UTILITIES COMMISSION

The resolution requesting the appointment of a Public Utilities Commission was reported back to the committee for further consideration.

Seven Million Dollars Cut From Governmental Services as Finance Minister Unsuccessfully Strives to Bring Falling Revenues in Line With Expenditures and Fails by Over $2,000,000

Municipalities Lose Liquor And Pari-mutuel Grants

Warning Given on Rising Costs of Social Services and Intimation Province's Contribution to Unemployment Relief May Be Limited; Debt Continutes to Jump at Rate of Million a Month; Cabinet Minister and Members to Suffer Cut

Surtaxes on higher incomes and succession duties estimated jointly to bring in additional revenue of nearly $700,000, and wiping out of the municipalities' share of pari-mutuel and liquor profits to the extent of $640,000, were provided for in the budget brought down in the British Columbia Legislature this afternoon by Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance. The budget was unbalanced.

It provided for estimated revenue of $20,497,591 and for an expenditure of $22,729,593.

Besides the $1,300,000 extra revenue estimated from the two surtaxes and the elimination of the betting tax and liquor profit grants to the municipalities, sweeping reductions have been made in every department of the government, amounting to approximately $7,500,000.

Minister's salaries which used to be $7,500 are cut to $6,000. Members indemnities have been voted for this year but will be cut from the present $1,800 to $1,600 next year.

The Finance Minister stated his budget was based on the present ability of business and individuals to pay.

It sought, he said, to equitably balance the measure of sacrifice during this period of emergency. The average man had no surplus out of which to pay taxes, whereas the wealthy man, even were his taxes doubled, would still be left with an ample surplus over and above his personal needs.

ON $5,000 AND OVER

Incomes from $5,000 and up will pay a graduated surtax from 1 per cent on the first $2,500 of income in excess of $5,000, rising to 18 per cent on the income in excess of $50,000.

The surtax is estimated to yield approximately $350,000.

"I would emphasize that both the wage tax and this surtax are temporary measures expressly designed to cope with the present unprecedented economic conditions," the minister commented.

DEATH DUTIES

Additional levies on succession duties in the form of a surtax of 25 per cent on the amount of duties payable by each estate were called for.

Amendments will be brought into the Succession Duty Act to provide an exemption on life insurance up to $25,000 instead of total exemption as is now the case.

A supertax will be levied on legacies to persons other than relatives on a graduated scale from 1 per cent on legacies of $25,000 upward to 5 per cent on legacies of $100,000 and over.

These surtaxes are estimated to yield $315,000.

The school tax on lands outside school districts was cut from 5 mills to 2 mills.

Mr. Jones emphasized there was no additional tax on the small wage-earner.

The proposed surtax when added to the duties to be enforced will constitute a succession duty levy still lower than that adopted by other provinces in the Dominion, Mr. Jones said.

Municipalities

Mr. Jones reviewed the history of grants to municipalities.

"Last year," he said, "economic stringency made it necessary to ask the various municipalities to defray the cost of municipal patients or inmates in several of our institutions and to assume part of the cost of mothers' pensions; their share of such costs is estimated for 1933-34 at about $626,000; this year it is absolutely necessary to discontinue grants by way of liquor profits and pari-mutuel taxes, which in 1933-34 would have amounted to approximately $640,000.

"This government fully appreciates the difficult times experienced by local government, but as its paramount duty to preserve the provincial credit. It can not continue to divert its income to them in as bountiful an extent as formerly, particularly so when for years this has been done on a scale greater than that originally deemed necessary. It is also suggested that municipalities may well amulate the retrenchment policy enforced by this government; that they also curtail their expenditures to the barest minimum until this critical cycle in the world's economy gives way to better times."

Deficits

Speaking on deficits, the minister said that only one year since 1910-11 had shown an actual surplus. Deficit budgets, in their estimates of revenue and expenditure had been submitted to the House even in years of greatest prosperity when there should have been

HOW REVENUE OF B.C. FELL

Liquor, Motor, Gasoline and Income Tax Receipts are Off $6,000,000

Social Legislation Costs Impair Development, Says Finance Minister

Contributing factors in the $6,000,000 drop from the revenue total of $28,000,000 which British Columbia expected to realize during 1931-32 were referred to by Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, in his budget speech this afternoon.

In addition to showing how the revenue was lost, Mr. Jones said the people of the province were forced to meet increasing charges for public debt, hospitals, education and charities and administration.

Social legislation which has been under fire again from Conservative benches this session was referred to by the Finance Minister.

PATERNALISM

"Percentage distribution of costs evidences", he said, "that paternalism in government has been on a volume such as to impair the development and maintenance of our national assets; furthermore that debt charges exceed by far the direct yield to the state from exploitation of natural resources."

Although the main estimates of revenue for 1931-32 were based on conditions actually in existence at the time of their preparation, they exceeded actual collections by $5,926,039," the minister said.

Liquor profits were $1,080,000 short of estimates; motor vehicle revenue nearly $500,000 less; gasoline tax $200,000; income tax $1,000,000; land taxes $300,000; mineral tax, $420,000, and Lands Department revenue $1,500,000. The aggregate of these items was $5,050,000.

"In addition, with the exception of one or two, all other revenue sources fell to undreamed of low levels and yielded $870,000 less than anticipated," the minister remarked. Determined resistance to every endeavor to reduce the costs of grants, social services and other government functions, as well as a loud cry for other still more costly relief measures, had added to his problems, Mr. Jones said.

The people of the province on a per capita distribution have had to pay three times more for public debt charges. They paid at a ratio of 3.65 to 1 more for municipal aid; 1.8 to 1 more for education; 3.12 to 1 more for hospitals, charities and relief. They paid 11 per cent. less for public works, 21 per cent. more for administration of justice, 53 per cent. more for administration of natural resources, and 16 per cent less for government functions.

Reciprocity Tariff Efforts in U.S.

SECRETARY SPEAKS

Washington, March 15.—Attacking the present United States tariff system, Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, yesterday advocated a tariff policy "of common sense and common decency," to other nations.

At the same time he predicted diminishing facilities for the Department of Commerce. He asserted activities of doubtful value would be eliminated and that employees of doubtful efficiency would be discharged.

It was his first speech as Secretary of Commerce.

"There are honest differences of opinion as to tariff policies, but I believe an overwhelming majority of the American people have unmistakably shown they are tired of a policy that has antagonized every other nation in the world," he said.

MUST BUY

Buying as well as selling must occur in foreign commerce, he said, adding no nation could successfully market its own goods if it persisted in refusing to admit a reasonable volume of the products of other countries.

"I am not here suggesting any immediate and violent reduction of our tariff schedules," he said. "I suggest only that our tariff policy should be one of common sense and common decency to other nations. There is no use in becoming virtuously indignant at the effect of trade barriers thrown up by countries to which he wants to sell our products, so long as we refuse to take as much as an inch from the top of the wall we ourselves have erected."

READY TO DO SHARE

Washington, March 15.—A State Department spokesman to-day, speaking of the proposal for reciprocal tariff agreements with various countries, said that whether it would be possible to negotiate such pacts depended on whether the people of the various nations had suffered enough privations to bring them to the point of forcing political bodies to lower abnormally high tariffs.

This government was described as ready and desirous of contributing its full share to such a movement, in accordance with the tariff policy in the Democratic platform.

Secretary Hull expects to talk with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, before long and at that time will state on behalf of the United States government its broad desires in connection with the Ecopomic Conference.

MOSCOW RAID IS PROTESTED

"Strong Representations" From London Following Arrest of British Men

London, March 15.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, informed the Commons to-day the British Ambassador in Moscow had been instructed to make strong representations to the Soviet government of the grave view taken by the British government of the recent arrest of six British subjects in Russia.

Mr. Baldwin reviewed the facts of the arrests at Moscow.

The British ambassador, he said, had immediately on learning of the arrests made urgent representations and asked among other things to be informed exactly what charges had been preferred and what facilities would be granted for their defence.

The ambassador, Mr. Baldwin said, had been instructed to press for the fullest possible information.

SEE NO JUSTIFICATION

Mr. Baldwin continued:

"Moreover, as the government is convinced there can be no justification for the charges on which the arrests were made, the ambassador has been instructed to represent in strong terms the grave view the government takes of these proceedings against British subjects of high standing engaged in normal work for the benefit of both countries, and the unfortunate consequences to Anglo-Soviet relations which may follow."

MacDonald To Meet Mussolini In Italian Town

British Premier and Duce to Discuss Possible Disarmament Moves

Rome, March 15—Official circles to-day said Premier MacDonald of Great Britain had urged Premier Mussolini to attend a conference either at Turin or Stresa in order to salvage the World Disarmament Conference.

It was said the Premier was considering accepting Mr. MacDonald's suggestion.

The meeting would be secret, with Mr. MacDonald, Premier Mussolini, Premier Edouard Daladier of France and possibly Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany present.

Heads of the governments would agree on principles which the experts, meeting again in Geneva after Easter, would put into effect.

This would be the first time Premier Mussolini had attended an international conference since the Locarno Pact of 1925.

TO TRAVEL SATURDAY

London, March 15—It was said in official quarters to-day that Premier MacDonald and the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, were expected to leave Geneva for Italy Saturday for a conference with Premier Mussolini.

Mr. MacDonald and Sir John went to Geneva last week in an effort to break a stalemate in the World Disarmament Conference.

Great Britain's view is that a mere adjournment without tangible results would be dangerous for Europe.

The view is taken that unless Italy is brought into direct negotiation along with Germany, France and the other powers, efforts to save the conference will be endangered.

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff writer:

Geneva, March 15—The Drama of Geneva swiftly unrolls. Premier MacDonald has drafted a disarmament plan and to-morrow will submit it to the general commission of the World Disarmament Conference.

He proposes to outline to the committee the results of numerous conversations he had had with representatives of other countries since his arrival here a few days ago and will then circulate a draft convention.

The convention aims to secure a maximum agreement between the nations represented. Its idea is to take the conference out of maze of of technicalities into which it has fallen and bring it back to reality.

It will represent the fruits of the efforts of Premier MacDonald and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, to instill new life into the World Disarmament Conference which opened more than thirteen months ago and which of late weeks has been in such doldrums that its complete collapse has been feared.

The British statesmen arrived here less than a week ago and have been busy among the delegates ever since.

PRAISE WORK OF THORNTON

Many Send Messages to Widow of Ex-C.N.R. President in New York

New York, March 15.—As messages that couple condolences to the family of the late Sir Henry Thornton with tributes to his organizing and business ability came to the New York residence of the widow, arrangements went forward to-day for the burial Thursday afternoon at Newtown, Pennsylvania.

A service will be held in the chapel of fashionable St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church here. Then the body will be taken to the little town in Bucks County, Penn., where Sir Henry spent a great part of his youth.

The former president of the Canadian National Railways died here at 2.45 yesterday afternoon. Lady Thornton, the former Martha Watriss, whom he married in 1926, and his son and daughter of a previous marriage, James and Anne, were at the bedside. James Thornton had been with his father for several days, but Anne had reached the hospital only an hour before he died, having come from her home in Harrisburg, Pa.

KING'S TRIBUTE

Ottawa, March 15.—"The world in times like the present can ill afford the loss of one whose heart and mind were so keenly alive to its problems and its needs," said Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, speaking of the death in New York of Sir Henry Thornton.

"In the years in which Sir Henry was head of the Canadian National Railways he won for himself a reputation second to none as a great railway executive. Had it not been for the years of depression, and for policies which have helped to barricade the channels of trade, the Canadian National Railways would be as much a source of national pride to-day as they and their great competitor, the Canadian Pacific Railway, were in the years which immediately preceded the present world crisis."

MANION'S TRIBUTE

"Everyone has heard with deep regret of the sudden passing of Sir Henry Thornton," said Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

"As Minister of Railways I naturally saw much of him, and like all who came into contact with him, I was much impressed by his kindly nature and his great enthusiasm and optimism.

"His family have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole Canadian people."

"In the death of Sir Henry Thornton I feel I have lost a good friend," said Premier S. F. Tolmie. "I knew him very well and always called on him when in the east. Sir Henry was a man of exceptional ability and had great faith in Canada. His passing will cause sincere regret from one end of the Dominion to the other."

Mayor David Leeming, in expressing his sorrow, said Sir Henry was a man of firm conviction who had tackled a huge problem in taking over the Canadian National and consolidating the roads into one system. His optimism was great, and had better times continued, his great capabilities might have been better realized.

R. H. B. Ker, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, expressed sincere regret over Sir Henry's death.

"The work of Sir Henry Thronton during the Great War long will be remembered, especially in Great Britain," said Mr. Ker. "His great faith in the future of Canada probably guided his administration of the great railway system over which he presided. Canada has indeed sustained the loss of a staunch friend."

HAD WIDE INFLUENCE

Edmonton, March 15.—Keen regret over the death of Sir Henry Thornton was expressed to-day by Hon. J. E. Brownlee.

"I am very sorry to hear of the death of Sir Henry Thornton," said the Alberta Premier. "He was an able railway executive, but his influence ranged much further than railway matters. He was one of the greatest 'boosters' Canada ever had."

TRY SOCKEYE IN NANAIMO LAKES

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, March 15.—Sockeye salmon eggs will be planted in Nanaimo Lakes, W. W. R. Mitchell president of the board of trade, announced yesterday evening. The Dominion Fisheries Department will to-day plant 1,000,000 eggs in the watershed of Nanaimo River, as a result of repeated requests from the local board for a survey of Nanaimo Lakes as a suitable area for propagation of fish.

Inspector Tait of the Fisheries Department addressed the the board regarding hatcheries and stated the interest of the department was due to the efforts of the Nanaimo board of trade. Mr. Tait said that if the first experimental planting proved successful, planting would be carried on for four years. The operation would benefit local canneries and help to solve the unemployed situation by attracting gill net fishermen.

The board endorsed a resolution from the Saanich board requesting federal government to rebuild the ferry terminal at Sidney. President Mitchell stated the Nanaimo board had wired C. H. Dickie, M.P.P., to that effect.

The Alberni board of trade was accorded support for a resolution protesting against changing of the name of Long Beach, on the West Coast, to the name of an old Indian chief.

A request from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce that the Nanaimo board give views on three proposals to solve the difficulties of the Canadian railways was referred to the transportation committee for consideration.

Progress with the farmers' market was reported. A building had been secured and the market is expected to open in May.

Delegates were appointed to represent the board on the Empire Day celebration committee.

Bennett's Attitude Sharply Criticized

Hanbury, Vancouver Liberal, Addressing Commons, Says He Seeks Too Much Power; Reid and Others Debate Rail Bill

Ottawa, March 15.—Likening Premier Bennett to Napoleon and former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, Wilfred Hanbury, Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard, shared in the debate in the Commons yesterday evening on the C.N.R.-C.P.R. bill.

Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, said the Canadian National Railways had developed one of the finest and most efficient services to be found anywhere.

MARITIME NEEDS

Hon. Peter Veniot, Liberal, Gloucester, N.B., former Postmaster-General, sounded a Maritime note of warning. "Hands off the Intercolonial" was its effect. Under the bill, the board of trustees could scrap the Intercolonial, he said, and the Maritimes would have no court of appeal. He suggested the stipulation the trustees be forbidden to formulate Intercolonial policies without the consent of the government.

DESCRIBED AS DICTATORSHIP

Mr. Hanbury criticized the railway bill as a measure conceived in the mind of a dictator and designed to establish a dictatorship in defiance of all humane considerations for the sole benefit of bondholders and moneylenders.

"This bill was begotten in lust," said Mr. Hanbury, "lust for power, not only power unto death but power after death. It was born in fear of political interference and fear of the actions of the successors of this government."

The bill could only be understood by understanding the character and personality of the Prime Minister, the Vancouver Liberal stated. For that reason the Prime Minister's personality became a matter of importance to Parliament.

"VISION AND MISSION"

"He is one of those individuals who march across the world from time to time," he said, "with a vision and a mission. We have had such men before. Napoleon was one and had an inspiration and an objective. Another man equally inspired and sent by God was Kaiser Wilhelm."

Ordinary men could not judge of the actions of such dictators, said Mr. Hanbury, because they were above the law and above the rules of ordinary morality. The people did not always know what was best for them and it was the function of men like the Prime Minister to give them what was best, regardless of precedents, constitutions and ordinary human considerations.

TOWARD DICTATORSHIP

The railway bill might be a step in the direction of a general dictatorship for Canada, said Mr. Hanbury. It might not be long before members of parliament would be told the country needed a dictator and a dictator who would perpetuate his powers in a succession.

"IRON HEEL"

"Who was it used the expression, 'the iron heel of ruthlessness'?" asked Mr. Hanbury. "Was it Napoleon or one of the czars? It was the Prime Minister of Canada."

"In this bill he is setting up a dictatorship, not to give service to the people, not to keep the railroads operating; not to give employment to railwaymen, but by the iron heel of ruthlessness to crush from the people of Canada sufficient tolls and borrowed money to feed his golden calf."

Railway employees should be under no illusion about the bill, said Mr. Hanbury. It would mean the scrapping of trade union agreements with the companies, cutting of wages to the bone, longer working hours, ruination of towns and villages and the rusting and rotting of hundreds of miles of track.

"I suggest to railway labor," continued the Vancouver member, "their agreements with the Canadian National will be merely scraps of paper to this Kaiser."

HUMANE CONSIDERATIONS

Parliament, said the Pacific Coast member, should be guided by more humane considerations than the mere object of securing the dividends and interest of railway shareholders and bondholders. It should reject this attempt to set up a railway czar.

Mr. Hanbury was not satisfied with comparing the result of the bill to a dictatorship. He called it a Frankenstein.

Before passing the bill he urged members of Parliament to reflect. If they had any feelings of humanity they would vote against placing one man in charge of such large operations as the Canadian railways.

REID'S VIEWS

Had the development of Canada been left to the C.P.R. many districts in Canada would have remained undeveloped, said Thomas Reid, New Westminster, Liberal.

He believed the legislation meant the end of public ownership in Canada and the setting up of a new system. The Canadian National had developed one of the finest and most efficient services to be found anywhere. Had it not been for the competition the national system had furnished Canadians would still be forced to spend about a week crossing Canada.

TRUSTEES FOR C.N.R.

In selecting the trustees for the Canadian National care should be exercised that no one connected in any way with the C.P.R. was appointed, Mr. Reid declared. Members of the national board of trustees should not hold any C.P.R. stock because "where your treasure is there shall your heart be also."

He strongly criticised the legislation on the ground that the people of Canada were debarred from coming, through the Dominion and provincial governments, before the arbitral tribunal. Surely, he said, the government was not going to be so heartless as to set up a dictatorship and allow the people no appeal. For instance, he understood the two Canadian railways had agreed on the abandonment of 1,582 miles of line. Surely the people vitally interested in this proposal should have something to say about it.

Duplicated shops of the Canadian nation and Canadian Pacific would be closed, he predicted, throwing thousands of men out of work.

This was not the time to proceed with the St. Lawrence canalization scheme, continued the British Columbia member. It was too costly in the first place, and would increase the desperate financial condition of the railways by providing free water transportation.

ECONOMY DISCUSSION

A. P. Totzke, Liberal, Humboldt, Sask., said he was in favor of practicing economy in regard to the railways at the present time, which was being done by every business, "but we must not go too far and jeopardize the people of Canada." There was the danger that a "mania" for railway economies might be carried too far, having regard only to present conditions, and not those a few years from now. He was opposed to any amalgamation of the two systems, and while the government had said there was no idea of amalgamation, he was afraid there were provisions in the bill which led toward amalgamation of the two roads.

Mr. Totzke paid tribute to the late Sir Henry Thornton for his work regarding the Canadian National system which has provided good service.

If the C.N.R. had been guilty of extravagance, what about the C.P.R.? Asked Mr. Totzke, Care should be taken against "false economies" and the Canadian National Railways should be kept in an efficient condition.

In whatever economies were effected, Mr. Totzke urged the condition of the employees be taken into consideration. Those who had spent many years building up the road had a right to some degree of security.

He would vote against the bill, Mr. Totzke said in conclusion.

Several of the Liberal speakers blamed the fiscal policies of the Bennett government for the financial plight of the railways, arguing high tariffs and trade barriers had stifled the general industrial life of the country, which was reflected in railway revenues.

PARLIAMENT'S POWER

If the board of trustees proposed to be set up in place of the directors of the National Railways, should not carry out the spirit of the railway legislation, they might be removed by Parliament, said Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, answering an argument to the contrary advanced by A. L. Beaubien, Liberal, Provincher, Man.

some bearing on the problems involved, but it is hoped here the Soviet government will participate in the economic conference.

MOVE WELCOMED

Winnipeg, March 15.—"It appears the United States has given us the lead we have sought for a long time," J. I. McFarland, general manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, said to-day.

Long an advocate of orderly world wheat production, Mr. McFarland said farmers of western Canada for a long time had stressed the folly of increased production of wheat in view of present world conditions.

DISCUSSED AT OTTAWA

Suggestions that the chief exporting countries of the world be asked to participate in a round-table discussion on acreage reduction problems were laid before Premier Bennett by the premiers of the three prairie provinces last January.

The plan, which had the backing of the three prairie wheat pools and farmers' organizations in the west suggested the advisability of immediate action. The government was asked to invite Australia, the United States and Argentina to send delegates to the coming World Economic Conference to be held in London.

A mutual agreement to reduce acreage under wheat in each country would stimulate prices, Mr. McFarland believes, and would do much to achieve an orderly recovery of world trade.

No detailed plan for proportional acreage reduction had as yet been advanced, Mr. McFarland said. It was a problem that demanded study and concerted action. It would remain for the principal countries to evolve a plan out of which organized international action would emerge.

ALBERTA VIEWS

Calgary, March 15.—United Farmers of Alberta for some time have favored an agreement between wheat exporting countries that would solve the present wheat problem, according to N. P. Priestley, U.F.A. vice-president, who to-day commented on the United States Government's intention of seeking a world-wide agreement to limit wheat production.

"The United Farmers of Alberta," Mr. Priestley said, "have gone on record as favoring a conference of the wheat exporting countries of the world with the object of finding a way out of the present difficulties. The conference, however, was not proposed with the sole object of limiting wheat production, but to survey the whole field and arrive at some solution agreeable to all."

The vice-president emphasized the proposed conference would study the feasibility and usefulness of limiting wheat production, but if this should be found inadvisable some other plan would be discussed.

ANY SOLUTION WELCOMED

The Alberta Wheat Pool, Henry Wise Wood, chairman, said, would support any proposal that would lead the wheat farmers out of their present predicament, caused by low prices.

"The pool would agree to limiting production," Mr. Wood added, "if it should be found to be the solution. In fact, we would support any practical plan that would solve the problem."

TAX PENALTY CUT FAVORED

The committee also approved a resolution requesting power to prohibit or regulate parades or public meetings on streets or in buildings.

A resolution asking for amendment to the Shops Regulation Act was approved. This amendment would permit early closing of certain shops by petition of "occupiers" of premises. As the law now reads "licensed occupiers" must petition the city council for regulation of hours.

A recommendation from the union asked that Section 212 (1) of the act dealing with assessment and revision be amended to read as follows:

For the purposes of taxation land, except as hereinafter provided shall be assessed at its actual value, and improvements (with the exception of those made by clearing, dyking, draining, planting or cultivating the soil) shall be assessed at the cost of placing the same on the land at the time of assessment, having regard to their then condition; and the assessment of clearing, dyking, draining, planting or cultivating the soil shall be fixed at the difference between the actual value of the land with all improvements thereon, including clearing, dyking, draining, planting and for cultivating the soil, and the actual value of the land and improvements first mentioned herein.

Provided, however, that land and improvements shall be assessed separately.

The committee approved in principle.

FIVE GIRLS KILLED IN HULL EXPLOSION

explosion caught fifteen girls in the vicinity. Little chance for escape was offered. Fire followed immediately on the explosion and in a few minutes the building was a mass of flames. First and second alarms were turned in, and Hull fire apparatus responded rapidly. So quick was the whole thing, however, that little could be done. Such injured as could be rescued were taken to a hospital.

FIRE FIGHTERS WIN

At noon all danger of the fire spreading had vanished. Nothing was left of the building but the bare brick walls, with firemen pumping water on them. Search for bodies in the wreckage went forward.

The factory was located north of Hull, a block from that section of the Chelsea Road known as St. Joseph Boulevard. No buildings are near the spot. The fire started near the main entrance of the factory, which was of brick construction and with many windows. The only explanation why so many lives were lost was that the heavy explosion carried the fire to all parts of the structure and cut off the entrances.

TWENTY-FIVE EMPLOYED

The factory employed about twenty-five girls, although in normal times double that number would have been at work.

Washington, March 15 (Associated Press)—The United States Department of Agriculture announced to-day this year's corn acreage for harvest would be 3.5 per cent smaller than the harvested acreage of last year, based on farmer's intentions as of March 1.

PETITION!

TO THE HONORABLE, THE HOUSE OF COMMONS OF CANADA, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED:

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED CITIZENS of the Great Dominion of Canada, being a free and independent people, in whom resides the right of self determination, do hereby vigorously protest against the action of the Radio Commission of Canada in censoring or attempting to censor and exclude from public broadcast radio lectures on matters pertaining to the Bible and of public interest, and particularly the lectures of J. F. Rutherford, pertaining to divine prophecy. We have faith in the Bible and the Word of God, and that it was written for the instruction of man. Many sincere persons claim that the Bible prophecies apply particularly to our day and bear direct relationship to the present world distress, and disclose God's remedy for relief. We are entitled to hear these questions publicly discussed free from all censor, otherwise our freedom is taken away. Those who object, or who may be offended by such lectures, may turn their radio dials and decline to hear.

We therefore demand that the Dominion Parliament take immediate action removing from the Radio Commission the power to censor, hinder or prevent such lectures by radio and that the people be left free to determine what they may or may not hear. Men of world-wide repute and eminently qualified to explain the Bible, such as we believe Rutherford is, can be helpful to the people and we demand that our radio stations be permitted to publicly broadcast his lectures. The question is, Shall the people continue to enjoy freedom or shall a few men deprive them of their God-given rights?

Seven Million Cut In B.C. Departments

Jones Budget Cut Some Appropriations By Nearly Half

Departmental expenditures of the British Columbia Government were cut by $7,420,518, it was shown in the budget of Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, presented to the British Columbia Legislature this afternoon. Mr. Jones reported the expenditures under this head in 1931-32 amounted to $19,478,467. For 1933-34, he reported, provision was made for an expenditure of $12,057,948.

Among the reductions planned were $158,125 in the Department of Agriculture, reducing it to $252,241. A total of $1,543,794 was cut from the former $4,647,489 appropriation of the Department of Education. The Finance Department was cut from $1,722,297 to $1,50[illegible]207.

Cuts under other heads were Legislation, from $133,058 to $99,405; Premier's office, from $17,845 to $14,933; ministers without portfolio, $898 to $250; Attorney-General, from $2,216,303 to $1,312,721; Fisheries, from $24,931 to $13,962; Labor, from $588,631 to $495,948; Lands, from $1,375,659 to $623,974; Mines, from $230,419 to $163,925; Provincial Secretary, from $4,453,261 to $2,611,216; Public Works, from $3,560,311 to $1,791,261; Railways, from $76,947 to $65,206.

The total departmental expenses in 1931-32 were $19,478,467. The cut proposed will bring this total down to $12,057,948.

that commitments previously incurred had to be liquidated and the borrowings therefore took place during the period reviewed.

From the borrowings payments made in connection with redemption of serial issue maturities, $332,000, and instalment on B.C. House mortgage, $9,700—making a total of $361,700—had to be deducted, leaving the increase in the gross debt at $12,368,220.90.

INTEREST CHARGES

Analysis of the debt, taking into consideration the fact that the provincial sinking funds held as investments quite a large sum of British Columbia securities, revealed that as to principal and interest some $78,000,000 was payable in New York, $30,360,000 in London, and some $46,400,000 in Canada with, respectively, the following annual interest charges: $3,650,000 in New York, $1,258,000 in London and $2,364,000 in Canada.

The percentage distribution of all provincial direct obligations is:

British Columbia's debt ratio is:
U.S. funds	Canadian funds	Sterling
64.64%	27.58%	7.78%
50.69%	36.00%	13.31%

"Comparatively speaking, British Columbia has a better balanced debt than is generally the case," said the minister. "Furthermore, sinking funds hold a par value of over $29,000,000, whilst the self-supporting debt amounts to over $5,000,000; these two combined represent 22 per cent of the gross debt."

Surtax on B.C. Incomes Over $5,000

Mr. Jones gave a table covering twenty-one years showing deficits in every year ranging from $135,000, which was the lowest, in 1929-30, to the highest in 1931-32. The only surpluses shown were $351,000 in 1919-20 and $100,793 in 1925-26.

Mr. Jones said that lean years had followed the prosperous times of a few years ago. Unless checked, a constant rising tide of appropriations as that of past years, even in prosperous times, could not help but lead to disaster. To properly balance a budget under these conditions was a most complex problem. To balance one in critical times as the present was a stupendous task.

CUT SERIOUS

"It has been my endeavor," said the Finance Minister, "to reduce costs by the elimination of all unnecessary governmental functions or services and by the adjustment of other functions more closely and intimately to the circumstances of the people of this province; furthermore to allow institutional service on a level with the average standard of living of the people."

The staggering financial burden of unemployment would take years to liquidate. Revenues despite a stiffening in tax rates had been falling to undreamed of low levels, the minister said.

DEBT CHARGES

"It is only reasonable," said Mr. Jones, after referring to debt charges, social service costs, grants to municipalities, hospitals, charities, pensions, cost of justice and public works, "that the general public be told that they cannot expect this or any other government to continue granting services on the scale of former years and to demand the whole-hearted co-operation of the people as well as every member of this House to effect economies, readjust the scope and extent of governmental functions and regain proper economic balance."

All must assume full responsibility for the background of extravagance and deficit.

"I want the House and the people of British Columbia to understand exactly the condition faced by the government when it came to close the present budget," the minister said.

"The expenditure of every branch of government had been cut beyond anything which it seemed possible in the past, below the cost of these services years ago when our population was far smaller. Yet the fact remains that our existing taxes would not cover those expenditures by roughly $3,000,000."

As incomes were the only source of taxation left, the government had to face the issue of imposing another $3,000,000 of taxation on people at a time when they were least able to bear it. It would have meant almost doubling the tax on average income. The government decided against it, and the tax on the average British Columbian was not increased by a single dollar. People comfortably placed had been called upon to pay according to their ability, Mr. Jones said.

"But even with this extra income the drop in our revenues from every department makes it impossible to submit a total revenue estimate in excess of expenditures. We have faced this fact frankly and decided that this arrangement was sounder than an increase in taxation which our people could not bear," stated the minister.

"We have been living beyond our means for years, and the depression has only served to make that perfectly clear to all of us. The economies of this budget are the foundation for these reforms."

Mr. Jones referred to the onerous yearly recurrent debt charges and warned the House that the debt burden must be materially and speedily reduced before the province could progress as it should.

SOCIAL LEGISLATION

He also said there was an excess paternalism in certain governmental functions or services. This had been diverting funds urgently required elsewhere to maintain an elaborate network of services which are designed to foster an ever higher standard of living for the people of the province.

"At the present time we simply have not the money and cannot get the money to spend more on what are termed social services," he remarked.

"Indeed I should be remiss in my duty were I to fail to warn this House that financial conditions may appreciably limit further government contributions towards unemployment, which has become the heaviest social service of all and an onerous burden.

"The various communities of this province should recognise that they are responsible for the solution of their local problems and that far more effective than government doles is a realization of each man's duty to his fellow man."

Balance Sheet

The balance sheet of the province as at March 31, 1932, showed assets aggregating $195,742,830. Liabilities were given as aggregating $162,405,466, leaving an excess of assets over liabilities amounting to $33,337,364.

REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES

Expenditures during the 1931-32 fiscal year, including over $1,000,000 for unemployment relief amounted to $29,214,217, a statement of revenue and expenditure showed. Estimates provided for an expenditure of $28,080,030, so there was an excess of $1,134,187 in the expenditure over the main estimates.

Revenues estimated in the main estimates were $28,088,696. Actual collections amounted to $22,162,657, falling $5,926,039 below expectations. Unforseen expenditures through unemployment and other results of the economic crisis brought the total of excess expenditures over revenue to $7,051,560 despite a net saving effected by the various departments from original appropriations of $1,342,396.

Estimates for 1931-32 as embodied in the Supply Act of 1931 provided for expenditures aggregating $28,080,030.76, and authorities, such as supplementary estimates, statutory and special warrants, were required for expenditures to the extent of $282,369.28, making a total of $28,362,400.04.

CUT DURING YEAR

Every effort was made throughout the year to lessen the cost of government functions and services, and as a result a net saving was effected against the original supply granted by the main estimates of $1,342,396.82. Under normal conditions, therefore, the aggregate expenditures for that year would have amounted to $27,020,003.22, or about $1,060,000 less than originally anticipated.

Unfortunately, the minister said, economic conditions instead of improving, as then hoped, became more and more critical, making it imperative to spend from income on unemployment relief an additional $1,062,156.96, and to lend to municipalities for a like purpose $619,645.82, making a total of $1,681,812.78.

There had to be spent in aid of destitute, poor and sick an additional $34,136.33.

Additional law enforcement measures to provide against disturbances incidental to conditions required $43,149.05.

Finally, Britain's departure from the gold standard and the resultant sympathetic drop in Canadian currency necessitated the purchase of United States exchange amounting to $286,426.78.

Public borrowings for unemployment relief added debt charges amounting to $148,689.71, or a total unforeseen and beyond the control of the government of $2,194,214.65.

Sale of Securities

Giving information on the sale of government securities during the twelve months ended November of last year, Mr. Jones said it was the belief of certain large financial institutions that the worst of the economic disorganization had been seen and that the peak of it was seen during the last year. During 1932 lenders were reluctant to either extend or grant credits, and all government bodies experienced difficulty in raising funds whether for refunding purposes or new money.

During February, 1932, the Canadian market was tested by the sale of $5,000,000 fifteen-year 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, which were sold at a 6.777 per cent cost basis.

During May, 1932, the province succeeded in entering the London market and disposing of £1,500,000 of 5 per cent inscribed stock, with sinking fund provisions, to mature in 1967 with a callable option from 1957 onwards. This stock was sold in London at a price of 99 per 100, the net proceeds of this sale in Canadian funds, taking into consideration all costs, yielded $3.54 per 100, or a cost basis of 6.15 per cent; it is to be remembered, however, that with the exchange rate on sterling in our favor for any length of time, the cost basis will be greatly reduced.

During August, 1932, $2,000,000 were sold in New York on a two-year 5 per cent basis. This sale netted us in Canadian funds 105.50 per 100.

At November 1, 1932, there were due to the Dominion Government $5,134,164 in one-year notes bearing interest between 5½ to 5½ per cent representing borrowings in connection with unemployment relief.

To effect the refunding of a 4 per cent treasury bill issue amounting to $4,015,000 due in New York on December 15, 1932, there were sold in that city during October and November, 1932, debentures of the province amounting to $1,671,000, dated October 1, 1932, due October 1, 1935, bearing interest at 5 per cent, the price therefor being 94.03 per 100 and netting the province $1,571,241.30; the balance required, i.e., $2,443,758.70, was secured by the sale of a 5½ per cent treasury bill to the Dominion for $1,732,500 and a 5½ per cent treasury bill to the Canadian Bank of Commerce for $1,112,330.55. Both of these treasury bills cover the cost of New York exchange amounting in the aggregate to $401,071.85.

"Accepting the assumption of certain financial circles that the worst of economic disorganization is over, and gradually business will be resumed, relationships and confidence restored, and that idle capital will seek employment, it seems probable that interest rates must drop and that capital at interest must find its level with capital otherwise employed," the minister said.

Unemployment Relief

The present government had contributed $6,819,661 as its share of $16,939,295 expended in British Columbia for relief of unemployment up to December 31, 1932, the minister pointed out.

In addition it had been compelled to aid municipalities in the financing of their share of such costs to the extent of $767,930.66. Thus the total amount this province had had to disburse was $7,587,591.55.

During the same period the Dominion's share of unemployment relief costs amounted to $7,031,096.17, and the municipalities made a direct contribution of $2,320,607.54. The province has had to temporarily finance the Dominion's share of these expenditures, Mr. Jones pointed out.

Sinking Funds

Full annual sinking fund provisions have been established in connection with direct obligations to the province amounting to $97,473,235, Mr. Jones reported.

Annual instalments were made in connection with securities on a serial basis now totaling $12,882,000.

An annual instalment was required on the B.C. House mortgage which now amounted to $128,525.

There was also established a sinking fund to repay portion of the P.G.E. Railway guaranteed obligations maturing in 1942, the principle adopted being that on the refunding of the unpaid balance in 1942 the present appropriation would continue in order that the refunding issue be fully repaid on its maturity. The total guarantee was for $20,160,000—a total of $130,643,761.

There remain short-term maturities and treasury bills for conversion into long-term sinking fund bonds to the amount of $24,185,943.30.

"Never, I suppose, in the history of this Legislature, has a budget been introduced under circumstances of such difficulty," Mr. Jones said.

"The time is long past for whistling to keep up our courage, for blaming one another, for digging up past mistakes, for seeking to take political advantage of any sort out of our financial situation. We are here as British Columbians, staggering under a load common to human beings the world over, and it behooves us, I think, to take counsel together and see how we can best carry this load until better days return.

"I was deeply impressed by many of the financial and economic proposals advanced in this House by members from both sides during the last two weeks. Let me agree at once that we are passing through a period of tremendous change, that we shall emerge with many departures from established custom, that our whole economic system unquestionably will have to be overhauled to meet the needs of a new world.

"A provincial government, which does not control currency, or trade, which cannot move too far ahead of its neighbors lest it injure its credit or drive out capital, which is limited on all sides by jurisdiction and legal powers, has few weapons for dealing with such a crisis as now exists. All we can do—whatever we would like to do, whatever we may think must be done on a national or international scale—is to work with the tools we have. We have few tools but the pruning hook and the shears. We must cut down our expenditures within our ability to meet them."

Hail Insurance Board in Session

Canadian Press

Calgary, March 15.—Operations for 1932 were reported at the annual meeting of the Hail Insurance Board of Alberta, which opened here yesterday with close to seventy-five delegates in attendance.

The 1932 report, submitted by A. H. Tovell, manager, showed $74,685.03 had been paid in claims during the twelve months, with a total of 452,598 acres insured. The reserve, built up in fourteen years' operations, now totaled $245,130.29.

There was discussion to-day on the maximum indemnity per acre. In normal years the maximum is $10, but two years ago it was reduced to $6.

Three directors will be elected before the meeting ends this evening.

Gold valued at over $125,000,000 has been produced by the mines of the Kirkland Lake area since 1913, when production was first recorded.

Valera's Annuities Scheme is Voted

Associated Press

Dublin, March 15.—The Dail Eireann by a vote of 76 to 53 yesterday evening adopted a bill giving the government power to use land annuities collected during the last year for ordinary expenditures.

The annuities are one of the subjects of controversy between the Free State and Great Britain. After President de Valera had refused to remit them to the British Government, they were held in suspense account.

BOGUS COINS ARE PASSED IN B.C.

New Westminster, March 15.—A counterfeiter is at work in this district.

Several spurious fifty-cent coins, dated 1931, have been passed in stores and on private individuals within the last few days.

The bogus coins, made of babbit, in appearance are extremely hard to distinguish from the legitimate half dollar. Only by the weight and ring can the spurious coins be detected.

Counterfeiters are stated to be using a glass preparation in manufacture of bogus coins which removes deadness of the ring and renders detection possible only by weight.

To Spend $2,000,000 More Than Revenue

Jones Budget Estimates Receipts $20,497,591, Expenditure $22,729,593

The estimates of revenue and expenditure presented to the British Columbia Legislature to-day by Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, in his budget speech gave an estimated revenue for 1933-34 as $20,497,591.46.

Total estimated expenditure was given as $22,729,593.77.

The 1932-33 estimate of revenue was $24,843,766.46. The estimate of expenditure during that period was $24,693,671.60.

Mr. Jones said that while total expenditure per capita in 1933-34 will amount to $30.49, despite the enormous increase in public debt charges since 1920-21, it will be $3.02 lower than it was in 1920-21. In fact, he said, departmental expenditure which will require $16.17 per capita in 1933-34 will be 50 cents less than that of 1916-17.

Cabinet ministers' salaries, members' indemnities and civil service salaries have been made to bear their full share in the retrenchment measures, the minister said.

A number of salary reductions had already been made, and beginning April 1 a cut in salaries will take effect with the adoption of a new progressive scale, which rises from a minimum of 4 per cent to a maximum of 20 per cent.

SIR HENRY THORNTON AND HIS BIG TASK

Sir Henry Thornton, K.B.E., who died in New York yesterday following an operation, came to Canada eleven years ago, under contract with the federal government, to direct the operation of the several large railroad systems which, having collapsed under private auspices, had fallen into the hands of the public. He had been recommended to Premier Mackenzie King by the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, now Minister for the Dominions in the National Government, who had been greatly impressed with Sir Henry's success as general manager for eight years of the Great Eastern Railway in England, a system which handled more passenger traffic than any other railroad in the world, with 76,000,000 passengers passing through its London terminal in a year, and which operated extensive steamship and hotel services.

During the war Sir Henry was made Inspector-General of Transportation in charge of army transport on the continent with the rank of Major-General, and after the struggle was over he was knighted by the King and received honors from other governments of the allies. Prior to his engagement by the Great Eastern Railway in 1914, he was known throughout the eastern United States as an expert in railway engineering and had been with the famous Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty years. Hence, he was singularly well equipped professionally for the extraordinary task involved in his contract with the Canadian government, while with his ability and experience as a practical transportation man he combined exceptional capacity as an organizer and executive together with an unusually striking personality.

Sir Henry's job in Canada was to make a single, efficient railroad out of a hodge-podge of defunct systems, consisting of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Railway in Ontario with important lines in the United States, and the Intercolonial running from Montreal to the Maritime Provinces, in all about 20,000 miles. Most of these railroads had been built by private interests with heavy federal and provincial subsidies and other forms of assistance, and they were faced with receiverships. The Dominion government took them over to avert their bankruptcy, incidentally relieving some of the provinces of heavy guarantees in interest and principal on construction made by them. British Columbia, which had backed the Canadian Northern heavily, was one of the principal beneficiaries of the national government's action.

Sir Henry, who was given a free hand, tackled his unprecedented jig-saw puzzle with remarkable energy and skill. He surrounded himself with the ablest coadjutors he could get. With their cooperation he built up a far-flung organization animated by a fine spirit of loyalty and devotion to the system which extended to the most insignificant worker among the many thousands who acknowledged him as their chief. He gave special attention to the human factor, his view being that a great railroad, like every other big industrial enterprise, was "ninety per cent humanity and ten per cent junk." The outcome of his labors and inspiration and enthusiasm he radiated throughout the country was a splendid national railroad system, which notwithstanding the abnormally heavy load of liabilities charged against it—a third of which at least should have been written off—eventually made substantial operating profits, besides taking care of a great part of the system's public obligations.

Then came the world economic collapse, which discounted Sir Henry Thornton's expectations and provided the critics of government ownership of railroads with a spacious opportunity for a campaign against the Canadian National and its president. They were able to show beyond doubt in the light of what happened in the fall of 1929 that there had been extravagant expenditures on the Canadian National Railways, and that Sir Henry had set too high a pace, but they could have shown with equal conviction and force that this was true of every other railroad on the continent, that it was particularly true of virtually every government in the world, and that there was scarcely a financial and industrial institution on earth which could escape that indictment. The tribulations of the Bank of England a year or so ago, and recent developments in the United States, not to speak of our own financial problems, suggest that Sir Henry Thornton's shortcomings were not at all unique. If the parliamentary investigators of the Canadian National Railways system and its management would turn their probes into other economic avenues in Canada they might uncover a chapter in contrast with which the railroad story would be a model of exemplary conduct.

Sir Henry Thornton's fine human interest, his perennial geniality and approachableness, which extended to everybody who came into contact with him regardless of his station in life, his invincible optimism and confidence in the future of this country, won for him a host of friends and admirers who will deeply regret to learn of his passing, while generally among the Canadian people there will be unforgettable appreciation of the valuable services he rendered to this country as head of its railroad system.

A NEWSPAPER GENIUS PASSES SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY

The Winnipeg Tribune last Thursday noted that Mr. E. H. Macklin, president and general manager of The Winnipeg Free Press, on that day had reached the Psalmist's allotted span of three score years and ten. Knowing Mr. Macklin's capacity to clothe his "vigorous thoughts in suitably vigorous language," however, The Tribune refuses to believe that he sounds seventy; indeed, if The Free Press had not so definitely announced the fact, it would have taken it with a grain of salt. But The Free Press has said so, so seventy he must be, and The Tribune is left to marvel at the way "he strides through business affairs or the activities of his so-called leisure moments." We read further:

> Mr. Macklin has many achievements to his credit as a newspaper publisher and in business affairs. In a sense, however, he caps them all by this one. To arrive at seventy years with the youthful zest for life and work and battle Mr. Macklin still possesses is in itself an accomplishment of no mean order.
> Our contemporary to-day makes use of a cricket simile in extending congratulations to Mr. Macklin. His score, it says, is "seventy—not out." It is an apt phrase. May he go on to make the century, and, at the end of the innings, carry out his bat.
> His friends of the newspaper profession, who are legion and who extend to all lands and every clime, wish him to-day Many Happy Returns.

The Times joins with The Winnipeg Tribune and many other newspapers throughout the Dominion in extending to Mr. Macklin the heartiest greetings and the hope that his youthful vigor will remain with him for many years to come.

HEARTENING TARIFF NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

In his first speech as United States Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Daniel C. Roper attacked the present American tariff system last night, and advocated a policy "of commonsense and common decency" to other nations. He believed there were honest differences of opinion as to tariff policies; but argued that "an overwhelming majority of the American people have unmistakeably shown that they are tired of a policy that has antagonized every other nation in the world." Although Mr. Roper was not advocating what he termed a "violent reduction" of the United States tariff schedules, he declared there was no use "in becoming virtuously indignant at the effect of trade barriers thrown up by countries to which we want to sell our products, so long as we refuse to take as much as one inch from the top of the wall that we ourselves have erected."

This pronouncement from the new Secretary of Commerce at Washington is a plain intimation to the rest of the world that it is the intention of the Roosevelt administration to repair as quickly as possible the damage which has been done to United States trade by the continual increase of tariffs since the Republican party was elected to office in 1920. It is more than that; it is an invitation to all the nations to follow suit and help themselves to economic recovery. Our neighbor, of course, has been a very serious offender in trade-restricting policies. First came the Fordney-McCumber tariff, then the McNary-Haugen, and finally the Smoot-Hawley, then for good measure certain specific commodities were further taxed for revenue purposes. The result has been a reduction in our neighbor's external trade of considerably more than one-half. A business with Canada has dropped from $1,362,000,000 in 1930 to $426,000,000 for the twelve months ending last December.

The tariff proposals of our neighbor are of paramount importance to this country. One of the most important markets for many Canadian products is the United States—even Mr. Bennett said so the other day when he expressed his government's readiness to consider any proposals from Washington for a reciprocal trade agreement. During last year's presidential election campaign Mr. Roosevelt roundly condemned the Hoover administration's tariff policy and we may be sure that Mr. Roper's statement last night reflected the President's views as well as those of his colleagues in the cabinet. Incidentally, Mr. Henry Chalmers, chief of the foreign tariff division of the commerce department at Washington, told the annual meeting of export executives at New York last night that the government is working "full tilt" on a reciprocal tariff programme. The plan under consideration is an arrangement of "executive agreements" with other countries to be worked out by the President or his representatives within limits to be set by Congress.

When we consider that Canada's trade with the neighboring republic for the fiscal year ending with March 31, 1914, was worth $133,000,000 more than for the year 1932, and practically twice as much in 1922, we get an idea of the serious damage which has been done to what ought always to be a large and profitable exchange. The trouble began at Washington when the first tariff boost took place; as other boosts followed, this country was compelled to act in retaliation. The New York Times summed up the situation the other day when it said "American experience has made familiar the effect of tariffs so much like that of taking drugs; the small dose always leads to the larger one, until we get a generation of tariff addicts." The truth of the metaphor lies in a world trade which is now only forty per cent of the volume of four years ago—and an army of idle workers of between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000.

The speed with which Mr. Roosevelt has worked and the results he already has obtained in the last ten days has heartened the world. Action in regard to the tariff will be awaited eagerly in Canada.

ICEBERGS

LIKE AN ICEBERG, the curious proceedings of the House on Tuesday were mostly under the surface. Like an iceberg also were the spirits of the House on the eve of the budget. The proceedings and private feelings of the House were so far below the surface, indeed, that no one could plumb or understand them—probably not even the House itself. Anyway, on a perfectly dull and quiet afternoon, without a voice being raised, without a whisper of those events which are boiling down below, the House suddenly broke its party lines in all directions and blinked in surprise at the dismembered spectacle of itself.

THE DAY HAD hardly started before both parties found themselves shattered and sundered. It was the business of Mr. Jack Loutet's motion about fish, and to Mr. Loutet it has proved an exceedingly fishy business. Mr. Loutet had asked the House, by resolution, to condemn a new federal fishery regulation which will have the effect of trying every salmon fisherman to his own fishing district, and to local fish prices, by compelling him to land his catch within twenty-four hours of being caught. Against this arrangement Mr. Loutet made a powerful argument, to which, no doubt, there must be some reply, but none had been made. Frankly, no one wanted to make it. Not many wanted to vote on the subject at all, for to support the Loutet resolution was to offend the whole canning industry, and to attack it was to incur the displeasure of the fishermen, whose vote is not negligible. Many a private member, many a cabinet minister had said unkind things privately about Mr. Loutet for putting him thus on the spot.

ESCAPE

BUT HAPPILY FOR the majority, it escaped the spot. Just as it seemed that the very big issue involved would have to be voted on, Mr. Speaker Davie, back from the hospital, perused the business which had transpired during his illness and found the Loutet motion quite out of order. His deputy, Mr. Twigg, being less learned in the rules than Mr. Speaker, hadn't discovered this important fact and had let Mr. Loutet go ahead. Mr. Speaker held, however, that there was a slight error in fact in the preamble of the resolution and as it is forbidden to say anything untrue in this House, except by word of mouth, of course the Loutet resolution couldn't be considered for a moment.

THE SIGHS OF relief which went up from both sides whistled through the rafters and made the draperies flutter. Mr. Speaker doesn't care whose feelings he hurts or how his decisions affect anyone. That is not his job. But to most members, who have sweated blood in private over the fierce fishery fight raging here, Mr. Speaker's decision was the only good news this session. True, it prevented the House from expressing its opinion on a highly important matter, but for the majority it was an easy way out. Mr. Loutet, with an utter lack of feeling, immediately gave notice of another motion, with the objectionable clause deleted, but whether it can be considered or not we did not know.

APPEAL

MEANWHILE, MR. LOUTET appealed Mr. Speaker's ruling to the House and split both parties from stem to gudgeon (if parties have stems and gudgeons). Two other Conservatives bolted from the party camp to help Mr. Loutet—Mr. Rutledge and Mr. Roderick Mackenzie. But more curious was the manner in which most of the Liberals flocked to the side of the big government majority. Only Mr. Pattullo, Dr. Sutherland, Mr. Hanna and Mr. King voted against the Speaker's ruling. Of those who voted for it, many favored Mr. Loutet's views on fishing, but government parties always support the Speaker. The opposition, not bound to any such arrangement by the rules of the game, apparently for the most part was against Mr. Loutet's plan on its merits.

But the tribulations of political parties in these troubled times proved greater still when Mr. Hinchliffe's school act came up. It is by this measure, you recall, that the government reduces its school grants to municipalities, particularly Vancouver, drastically. It was this act which Mr. Hanna had attacked so ably for the opposition. And it was on this act that Mr. Hanna supported the government by vote, and Mr. Cornett, the government's chief whip, the staff and consolation of its old age, flatly rejected it.

LONELY REVOLT

MR. CORNETT'S LONELY revolt was courageous and unexpected. Many another city member had vowed that he would vote against the Hinchliffe bill because it hits Vancouver too hard. Some had even told Mr. Hinchliffe frankly they couldn't support it. But when the party whip cracked all the trained seals balanced on their flippers and only Mr. Cornett, who is supposed to be the party whip, refused to obey the trainer's command.

He assailed the bill as unsound, as placing a very serious hardship on the city of Vancouver (and he knew, as the opposition didn't, that the government's budget on the morrow would hit the city an additional staggering body blow). He said Mr. Hinchliffe was putting school grants on a chaotic basis, when he fixed them according to assessable wealth and, while Mr. Hinchliffe was a splendid minister, Mr. Cornett just couldn't support him in this mistake.

Neither could Mr. Manson, who said Mr. Hinchliffe worked hard but by his unfortunate habit of tinkering with everything, had disrupted the educational system, roused the teachers to fury, disgusted local school authorities, harrassed ratepayers and generally made trouble for all concerned. If Mr. Hinchliffe hadn't worked quite so hard, Mr. Manson would have admired his work more.

FUNNY THING

BUT HERE WAS the funny thing—when the new school policy came to a vote, the Liberals split again. Only Mr. Pattullo, Mr. Manson, Mr. Kergin and Dr. Wrinch voted against Mr. Hinchliffe's school act. Mr. Hanna, Dr. Sutherland, Dr. Gillis, Mr. MacPherson, Mr. Pearson and Mr. King all supported it, and the face of Mr. Hinchliffe glowed as he viewed this remarkable conversion.

Mr. Cornett was not quite alone. Mr. Rutledge, an orthodox Conservative, boldly supported him and so did Mr. Dick, who is a Conservative, but somewhat unorthodox. It was a bad day for the other Vancouver members, knowing how their city was affected by the bill, and knowing also that the eagle eyes of City Solicitor Barney Williams, several aldermen and many a Vancouver ratepayer were watching from the gallery. It was a bad day, indeed, for most of the House. Such votes, cutting through party lines, actually getting down to facts, are disagreeable, highly embarrassing and not according to the rules of politics.

CLUB WELCOMES HON. R. R. BRUCE

Burns Members Hear Entertaining Comment on Cruise Around the World

When Hon. R. Randolph Bruce was welcomed back by the Burns Club in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium yesterday evening, he entered an atmosphere of true Scottish jollity and good cheer and once again displayed those qualities which have made him such a favorite with the members of the largest Burns organization in the world.

Mr. Bruce and his party were piped up from the Government Street entrance and into the hall, where his arrival was signalled by a burst of handclapping. After John Hosie, president of the club, had fittingly welcomed the guest of honor, Mr. Bruce voiced his pleasure at again being back among old friends and noted he had being doing quite a bit of traveling since he was last among them but that he had not been idle, since he had got married in the meantime.

"By the way," he added before getting down to his subject for the evening, "I am getting sick and tired of hearing that your chairman is still proposing the toast to the ladies at your annual dinners. Why doesn't he propose to just one? There's nothing like marriage and I've told him so before this."

NINETY-EIGHT WIDOWS

In his subsequent informal but entirely interesting talk, Mr. Bruce dealt with some of his experiences on the world cruise of the liner Empress of Britain, which started from Southampton, November 21, 1931. Personal reactions and comments were given the members by the speaker and much of the matter was not only absorbing but instructive. After describing some of the unparalleled comforts and luxuries of the Empress of Britain and the splendid advertisement which it gave the Canadian Pacific and Canada at the leading ports of call in the world, Mr. Bruce mentioned that, by the time the liner had left New York, 502 passengers were on board, including ninety-eight widows.

He touched on the visits at Madeira, Gibraltar, Monte Carlo, the Bay of Naples, Athens, Palestine, Cairo, Bombay and the Orient. Monte Carlo was comparatively quiet now, the Bay of Naples was wonderful and the architectural splendors of Athens almost incredible.

Mr. Bruce dealt fairly fully with the Parthenon. He had got up, he said, before dawn one morning to see the sun rise on this structure, built 400 years before the birth of Christ and still the marvel and envy of modern architectural students.

Seeing Palestine was the cause of many "mental jolts" as places were viewed whose names had first been heard sitting on mother's knee.

BATHED IN DEAD SEA

"I went for a swim in the Dead Sea and bobbed round like a cork on the surface. It took me three weeks to get all the salt out of my hair."

In Egypt, Mr. Bruce saw the great pyramid of Cheops and the Sphinx. He reflected on the Egyptian civilization of 5,000 to 2,000 B.C., with its books on medicine and anatomy, its still perfect mural paintings, its equal status for women (whose garments were even more fragmentary than those of modern women.)

"Just to show the refinement of those ancient Egyptians, I will tell you that they wore the kilt and sporran. I envy the king somewhat, because he used to be privileged to wear a tail with his kilt, and so did the high priest. Everybody was clean shaven except royalty and the nobles, whose mark of nobility was a V-shaped beard."

The speaker admitted he was surprised to learn the ancient Egyptians had used the Suez Canal, though, of course, for smaller boats than now. It cost $60,000, he added, for the Empress of Britain to get the necessary license to pass through.

In India, Mr. Bruce had a chat with Lord Willingdon, who asked after the people of Victoria. He also saw the magnificent Taj Mahal, built of pure white marble. The speaker hurried on to China, where he visited Shanhaikwan, the scene of the recent fighting. He was told there were 100,000 bandits in the vicinity of the city.

Mr. Bruce considered the Japanese deserved credit for their efforts to bring order out of chaos in a country which had no ordered government and was at the mercy of self-seeking war lords.

"The Japanese are going to be the ruling and dominating race in the Far East whether we like it or not," he said.

JOHN HOSIE RE-ELECTED

For the eleventh year John Hosie will guide the destinies of the Burns Club. The members would not listen to his argument that another should be given the post of president. He was elected unanimously.

Other officers for the ensuing year will be: Hon. R. R. Bruce, Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and J. G. Brown, honorary presidents; Adam Bell, honorary vice-president; W. B. Grant, vice-president; Donald McAdie, treasurer; W. L. Patterson, secretary; A. S. Christie, D. Cameron, L. Stewart, J. McMartin, J. A. Dewar and John Grant, executive committee.

In addition to the Canadian Scottish pipe band, the following contributed to an excellent programme: Major Walter Bapty, Capt. J. Adam and Sergeant-Major James Matheson, solos and trios; Pipe-Major Donald Cameron and Pipe-Corporal Ian Duncan, bagpipe solos, and Evelyn Watson, Gwen Dewar, Lillian Grant and Leta Styan, pupils of Miss Adeline Grant, Scottish dancing.

CAR LICENSES

To the Editor:—I think something further should be done to get the thousands of cars back on the roads that are still tied up for the want of licenses.

What if all that are still unable to obtain these licenses were allowed to come out with the old plate, and pay, say, six cents per gallon extra for gas supplied to them instead. The average required would be, say, six gallons of gas per car each week; this in the course of the year would pay for the license.

Stations supplying them could collect this and take their number and have them to sign for each lot supplied and turn this, with the slips, in to the government at the end of each month with the cash, also, all gas supplied in cans over one gallon at a time would have to pay the extra six cents, so that there would be more obtained in that way, and a heavy fine imposed on any operator that did not collect it. Paying extra on the gas, instead of on the license, is the plan used in some of the States, why not try it here now, and see how it works.

The government would get both their license money, and the gas tax they are now losing. Everybody is now asked to make work for the unemployed, and at the same time repair shops are idle, the tire, parts and gas business is being killed and hundreds of men in this line idle, and the government having to support them and their families also. I think this would be much better than many of the relief plans, and the streets would again be alive with traffic.—Yours truly,

J. MULLARD.

JOHN BULL'S TOLERANCE

To the Editor:—Your clipping of the other day in re the reaction of Philip Kerr to the voice of the London mob, at the base of Nelson's monument, was fine. It came from Ottawa, I think. It would be a good thing all round if they would take the hint down there.

It recalled to my mind a cartoon from Punch, some fifty years or more ago. Maybe you'll think it worth passing on. It was entitled "Boiling Politics." A number of log fires were blazing out-of-doors and a large kettle was boiling over each. At one end they were boiling Russian politics. There was the Czar Nicholas, his uncle, the Grand Duke Sergius, and Trepoff, all doing their grim best to hold down the lid on that boiling pot and keep everything in. Vain hope! The scum would keep bursting out and they were only scalding their fingers.

Next was the German pot. Here was the Emperor William, Prince von Buelow et al, with the most comical grimaces and contortions of countenance, all doing their utmost to keep the lid down. No go! Those socialistic fumes would keep bursting forth.

But away down at the end of the line was old "John Bull." He had a cook's apron on, and he was sitting down on the end of a log, his thumb in the arm-hole of his vest, puffing away at his old clay pipe and wearing the smile that wont come off. His pot was boiling, too, but all the fumes were vanishing into thin air. There was no lid on the pot at all!

WHAT COMMUNISM IMPLIES

To the Editor:—There appeared in the editorial columns of the morning paper on Friday, under the heading "What Communism Implies," an article so amazing in its implications, that I am craving space in your correspondence columns in which to draw attention to it.

The editorial in question quoted freely from that last refuge of Old Country squirecrattic—Toryism, The London Morning Post, shining oracle of "privilege, place and patronage for the rich," and "patient beast of burden-bearing on the part of the poor," and sought to show that our present class distinctions were inherent in our "different" human natures, and must therefore always remain with us, and that it was really an offence against society to attempt to break down these "natural barriers."

I wrote a protest to The Colonist (which did not appear) pointing out that most of the "heralds of the better dawn" who had striven to lift mankind from the jungle a little nearer to the stars, had come from the submerged mass of the people, and that very few had, like Moses, forsaken the pleasures of pomp and pride for a season, in order to endure hardship with their fellows, who apparently had been created that "they might be made to mourn."

In that protest I referred to Jesus, the Nazarene carpenter, the new and better law-giver; Socrates, the Athenian philosopher, born of a stonemason and a city midwife; Shakespeare, son of a Stratford brewer; Robert Burns, the Scottish peasant, and greatest teacher since the days of Jesus; Humphrey Davy and Michael Farrady, the eminent scientists, both of very poor parentage; David Livingstone, the Scottish weaver, who became the great African missionary; Sir Henry Stanley, the eminent explorer, born in a poorhouse; William Carey, the cobbler and famous Sanskrit scholar; Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator, born in a log hut, and destined according to the philosophy of The Colonist to remain a rail-splitter all his days, and so the shining honor roll might be continued did space and time permit.

I am quite ready to admit, sir, that it is a very comfortable doctrine for those on top to hold, that some of us are doomed to be ridden, whilst others are born to ride. As a boy in the Old Country I remember being taught to be duly "reverent and obedient to my betters," to "work, boy work, and be contented as long as you've enough to buy a meal," to "bless the squire and his relations" and humbly pray to God to help me "keep my proper station," that proper station according to my suggested betters being that of hewer of wood and drawer of water for the "upper clawss." This "upper clawss," don't you know, being the illustrious descendants of illegitimate sons of primping peers, proud prelates, or prurient princes; whilst "my no-account people" had toiled in the sweat of their brow to honestly earn their daily bread.

Now I can understand the attitude of The Morning Post in its relation towards these class distinctions, but surely in Canada "this land of hope for those who toil," where we fondly boast of opportunities for all and special privileges for none, we should have no use for the outworn creed that some are born to serve and others born to be served. Yet these are the two classes which The Colonist editorial would lead us to suppose should be perpetuated.

May I suggest to The Colonist that it take a short course in the philosophical school of Robert Burns, the Ayrshire ploughman, who though living on the very verge of pauperism all his days, towers head and shoulders above his contemporaries, though they consisted of such men as William Pitt, Edmund Burke, Charles Fox, Mozart, Schiller and Goethe. And let it commence with this:

"See yonder poor, o'erlabor'd wight,
So abject, mean and vile;
Who begs a brother of the earth
To give him leave to toil.
And see his lordly fellow-worm
The poor petition spurn,
Unmindful though a weeping wife
And helpless offspring mourn.
If I'm designed yon lordling's slave—
By Nature's law designed—
Why was an independent wish
E'er planted in my mind?
If not, why am I subject to
His cruelty, or scorn?
Or why has man the will and power
To make his fellow mourn.

Inequalities, I grant, sir, there may always be, so far as the physical, and moral, and mental make-up of men is concerned; but He who made us of one blood, and taught us to look up to Him as the common Father of us all, taught us also that the highest standard (or class) to which we may attain is "not to be ministered unto but to minister"; that "the strong ought to count it a privilege to help bear the infirmities of the weak," and not to take advantage of such weakness to make bondslaves to their will.

May we not look for the time to come when the spirit set forth by the King in his Christmas message to the British people, may become the dominating principle of the race, "All my life I have striven to be of service," and the Prince of Wales's motto, "Ich dien," (I serve) may become the inspiring spirit of all.

MORE RETURNS TO BE FILED

Conservative Member Criticizes Government's Call for Records

It was a case of more and more returns for the government, George Walkem, Conservative, Vancouver, complained in the Legislature yesterday when amendments to the Vital Statistics Act were discussed in the committee stage.

The section under discussion called for teachers to make returns to the government on pupils at school and for superintendents of cemeteries to make returns every quarter on the number of burials.

"It means another series of returns and I am fearful of the effect of it," commented Mr. Walkem. He asked Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., who sponsored the amendments, if he had made inquiries as to the extra staff that would be needed to handle them.

Mr. Maitland thought it would entail little extra work.

F. M. MacPherson and R. Hayward doubted the necessity of the returns from superintendents of cemeteries as every death had to be registered before a burial took place.

"It's a half-baked bill. That's what it is," interjected Mr. Walkem.

The section was stood over.

YEAR'S WORK IS OUTLINED

Activities of Canadian Club During 1932 Sketched in Annual Report

Activities of the Men's Canadian Club of Victoria during the year ending February 28, 1933, were outlined to members in the report of the executive submitted at the annual meeting in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

Brief summaries of meetings, the necessity for better attendances at luncheons, a drop in the membership, regret over the passing of valued members, and various highlights of the year were included in the statement, which read in part as follows:

"Thirteen luncheon and dinner meetings were held during the year at which many notable guests were entertained.

"As usual," it proceeds, "your committee finds it necessary to draw attention to the sparse attendance at some of the luncheons. The poorly attended luncheons have often required more effort to secure the presence of the guest than have some of the functions where the prominence of the guest or his popularity have drawn the attendance of the members in larger numbers, notably this year, His Excellency the Governor-General, His Grace the Marquess of Zetland and Hon. H. H. Stevens.

"The speakers committee has been particularly active this year in their endeavor to secure speakers as is evidenced by the number of prominent people who were invited but who could not for various reasons accept.

MEMBERSHIP 450

"The paid up membership for the year is 450. Last year's paid up membership was 561 and the year before 682. The number on the list who have not paid their fee for 1932 is 275. Twenty-five new members were elected during the year. The list of names in the membership book has been considerably reduced by the elimination of names of members who had not paid for a number of years.

"While we appreciate that under present conditions it is necessary for many men to curtail their expenditure, yet it is felt that for the small annual fee of $2 the Canadian Club offers an unparallelled opportunity to its members to meet and enjoy the addresses of our outstanding guests and to assist in the promotion of educational, inspirational and patriotic work which the club undertakes from year to year.

"We regret to record the passing away of the following members since our last annual meeting and offer to the families and relatives our sincere sympathy: G. H. Aylard, A. L. Dean, J. E. B. Dickson, F. B. Gibbs, E. C. Hayward, R. A. McConaghy, William Simpson, D. S. Spencer, Rev. C. M. Tate and Wallace S. Terry.

COUNCIL STRIDES AHEAD

"The Regional Council of Canadian Clubs in British Columbia has made definite strides forward during the year and is now being administered by an efficient set of officers headed by Mrs. P. B. Scurrah as president, P. B. Fowler, vice-president, and W. T. Straith, honorary secretary.

"Mr. Fowler attended the conference of the Association of Canadian Clubs at Regina in August last and with the able assistance of Mrs. Scurrah was successful in placing the position of the regional council on a definitely firm basis as well as clearing up a great deal of misunderstanding which had previously been much in evidence.

"The members will be interested to know that in recognition of his valued services at the conference and toward the forwarding of the Canadian Club movement in British Columbia Mr. Fowler was elected vice-president for British Columbia on the Association of Canadian Clubs Board.

"Some suggestions have been made by the faculty of Victoria College regarding the prize of $100 usually presented for Canadian History. The conditions of the award as understood by the faculty is that if the pupil receiving the highest marks does not intend continuing his studies, that the award be made to the next highest pupil who is continuing. Professor Farr also has a suggestion to make to the club covering the idea of the presentation being given a wider scope than purely for high marks in Canadian History.

HEARD MANY APPEALS

"A large number of appeals have been received from various organizations soliciting both monetary and executive assistance from the members. In most cases these appeals were inadvisedly made as the projects were entirely outside the purview of Canadian clubs. In some cases the attention of the members was drawn to the request, with the object of encouraging individual voluntary interest.

"A contribution of $50 was sent to the Victoria Boy Scout Association as authorized at the last annual meeting.

"In view of the drop in revenue during the past year the executive recommends that no grants be voted for any purpose at this meeting, but that such contributions be left to the discretion of the executive; they to keep in mind the perpetuation of the custom of encouraging Canadian History study so long practiced.

"The notice of motion contained in the announcement of this meeting sent to the members which suggested changing the club year from February to June has been reconsidered by the executive and it has been decided that the present time is not an opportune one to effect this change and it is therefore recommended that this proposed motion be withdrawn.

"The thanks of the executive is tendered to The Times and The Colonist newspapers for their ready willingness to bring to the notice of the members forthcoming functions, and also for the full reports of the meetings. To the Empress Hotel management for excellent service and co-operation; to Mr. Fowler for the use of the board room of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for committee meetings; to John Cochrane for efficient handling of sale of lunch tickets, and to George McCandless for his services as auditor of the accounts."

UNEMPLOYED FIGHT FIRES

Land Minister Relies on Men From Camps to Quell B.C. Blazes

A policy of rushing men from unemployed camps of British Columbia to fight any forest fires that may break out during the summer is contemplated by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, it was learned in the Legislature yesterday, when amendments to the Forest Act where considered in the committee stage.

Progress was reported on the bill, to which more amendments are yet to be introduced.

With the abolition of the forest fire-fighting fund under discussion, T. D. Pattullo, opposition leader, was informed that this policy was followed last year, when the fund was also eliminated, with the approval of Ottawa. Mr. Lougheed anticipated it would be possible to make a similar arrangement with Ottawa next summer.

Urging the importance of forest conservation, Mr. Pattullo doubted the success of the policy last year. He had been informed several miles of timber were burned out in a section in Northern British Columbia last year and nothing was done to save it.

A. M. Manson, K.C., said he was also informed there had been a substantial loss in his district which might have been averted.

Based on old value the damage in the fire Mr. Pattullo referred to amounted to $175,000, the Minister of Lands said. With the high wind blowing and the area very dry, no amount of money could have been spent to save it, he claimed.

Mr. Lougheed informed Mr. Pattullo the raw log export last year was 165,000,000. He promised to secure him information on the state of the forest reserve account.

Mrs. W. Page entertained on Friday afternoon with a birthday party for her son, Douglas. St. Patrick's colors were used in the decorations and a birthday cake centred the prettily appointed table. Syrett, Florence and Edna, and Mrs. J. Dever, Doree nand Lorna.

The Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church will present a local cast in "The Old Maid's Convention" in the Sooke Hall on Saturday at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will be followed by refreshments and a dance.

Honor Pioneer's Memory At Chapter Celebration

Landing of James Douglas in 1843 Recalled by I.O.D.E. Tea Yesterday

V. L. Denton Reviews Early History of Coast; Hon. R. R. Bruce Welcomed

Representatives of many pioneer families were among the several hundred guests who gathered at the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday afternoon to join with the members of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., in its annual commemoration of the landing at Clover Point of James Douglas on March 14, 1843, and the birthday of Victoria. Hon. R. R. Bruce, former Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Mrs. Bruce were honored guests, and were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Colin Cummins, the regent, who presided, and Mrs. R. B. McMicking, honorary regent.

HISTORY REVIVED

A comprehensive review of the early history of British Columbia's sea coast, leading up to the founding of Victoria, was given by V. L. Denton. He traced the arrival here of the Spanish explorers, the first to reach these coasts and recalled the landing at Nootka of Capt. Cook, in 1779, while looking for the northeast passage, the first Britisher to touch what is now British Columbia territory.

Reference was made to the great fur traders who followed him later, when the sea otter was the object of the quest. This amphibious creature, was then the object of the fur traders' quest, its skin being greatly prized, and it reached its peak in 1800, being hunted in such quantities that by 1820 it was practically extinct in this part of the world, the speaker noted. The skins of the sea otter found their biggest market in China, as opposed to the beaver, which had always been taken to Europe, thus creating a westward moving fur trade.

HUDSON'S BAY PIONEERS

Mr. Denton touched upon the Nootka Sound controversy, following Capt. Cook's meeting with Quadra and the subsequent founding of what was known as the Oregon territory.

The next era was the advent of the overland traders, in connection with which were mentioned the remarkable feats of Mackenzie, Fraser and David Thompson, after which the speaker traced the advent of the Hudson's Bay Company and its tremendous influence in the development of the west and the subsequent establishment of Fort Victoria by James Douglas.

BUSY COMMITTEES

The guests were welcomed by the reception committee, comprising the honorary regents, Mrs. R. B. McMicking and Miss S. Crease; the regent, Mrs. Colin Cummins; honorary vice-regents, Mrs. Fitzherbert Bullen and Mrs. C. D. Schofield; Mrs. George Bushby, the first vice-president, Mrs. C. T. Teasdale, and second vice-regent, Mrs. W. Barraclough.

The ballroom was most attractively arranged with easy chairs and lounges on the carpeted floors, and flowers everywhere. Behind the platform hung the Union Jack, and a copy of the chapter's motto, "Keep one hand on the traditions of the past, and green the memory of our illustrious dead.

The buffet tea table, at which Miss J. Crease, Mrs. J. S. Plaskett, Mrs. W. Barraclough and Mrs. C. T. Teasdale presided in turn, was attractive with bowls of daffodils, plum blossom and jasmine. Members of the chapter assisted in serving tea.

In charge of the receipt of customs was the treasurer, Mrs. James Shaw, assisted by Miss Gill. Miss E. B. Hill was standard-bearer.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

A delightful musical programme by Mrs. Jaffray, who played a popular medley of Scottish airs, and pupils of Miss Gwendoline Harper, filled in some pleasant minutes, those taking part being Miss Nancy Murray, who played "Lullalo" (Barron) and "Waltz" (Chopin); Geraldine Paterson, who played "Souvenir" (Karganoff), and "Mazurka" (Chopin), and Georgina Dowall, Mozart's "Minuet," and "Rhapsody" (Koelling).

HOSPITAL COTS AS MEMORIAL

Esquimalt W.I. to Furnish Three in Jubilee in Memory of Members

At a well-attended meeting of the Esquimalt Women's Institute held yesterday evening in the Parish Hall, St. Paul's Garrison Church, the members decided not to hold the usual annual exhibition of work and flower show. A garden party will be given on July 5, at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Booth, 923 Esquimalt Road.

Mrs. N. Kelly reported on the silver tea and bridge party held recently at her residence. As a result of the generous support extended to these two functions it was decided to furnish a cot at the Jubilee Hospital in affectionate remembrance of three members, Mrs. Brooker, Mrs. Hollegan and Mrs. Pauline who passed on last year. It is hoped that the gift may be arranged to take part on March 27, the anniversary of the deaths of two of the three.

Mrs. Kelly announced that the prizes at the card party had been won as follows: Bridge, first, Mrs. Chatfield, Mr. D. Tripp; second, Mrs. W. H. Booth, Mr. Kennedy; consolation, Mrs. J. Watts, J. Irvine; whist, first, Mrs. J. M. Matheson, W. J. Gibson; second, Mrs. Crane, T. Bradley; consolation, Mrs. A. Stewart, A. Stewart; tombola prize, Mrs. Crane.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Kelly and her committee for their work in securing such success for the entertainments.

Letters of thanks were received from Mrs. A. Mossop for flowers and congratulations sent on the occasion of her mother's birthday, and from Mrs. Rogers of California, an old member of the institute, for gift of a magazine.

Mrs. K. Saddler, convener of home industries, stated that arrangements had been made to visit the paper-box factory of Barraclough and Challoner on Wednesday, March 22. Members desiring to go will meet at the post office, Victoria, at 2 p.m.

Two new members were proposed Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Crabtree. Mrs. J. Appleby was warmly welcomed back after her long illness and Mrs. Pearce, an institute member from England, was also cordially received.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL

The business meeting then terminated and visitors arrived for the social evening to celebrate the twelfth anniversary of the institute. Guessing competitions and games were enjoyed, winners in the former being Mrs. Parlby, Mrs. J. Sanders and Mrs. Pauline.

Two picked choirs afterwards took part in a singing contest, the honors going to choir No. 2 under choirmaster, Andrew Stewart. Messrs. P. Johnson and George Wise were judges.

The rooms were artistically decorated with shamrocks and St. Patrick favors. The supper table was centred with a beautiful birthday cake made and donated by the president, Mrs. W. Grimes, and iced and decorated by Mrs. F. Lock in the institute colors, bearing twelve candles. A toast to the institute coupled with congratulations on the useful work accomplished by the members was given by George Wise and replied to by the president.

BANQUET MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Oak Bay United Church celebrated its seventh anniversary on Monday evening with a banquet in the church schoolroom, 260 guests enjoying the excellent dinner provided by the Women's Auxiliary. At the conclusion of the banquet the gathering adjourned to the church auditorium, where Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, principal of Columbian College, gave an address on the tendencies of modern colonization, under the caption "Northward Ho!"

The speaker traced the westward journey of man, stating that he had been satisfied that east had reached west, and was still restless for new fields to conquer in the approaching new era. The movement northward has not yet gained full impetus, asserted Mr. MacKenzie, but men would soon seek new territories and their efforts would certainly be directed towards northern Canada and the Peace River country.

Rev. E. F. Church conveyed the congratulations of the Victoria United Church Presbytery. A musical programme was contributed by Miss Ina Tait, Mrs. Barker, Frank Irving and H. Anderson.

Rev. G. B. Switzer presided.

IRISH CONCERT FRIDAY NIGHT

Plans are now practically complete for the staging of the St. Patrick's Day concert at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Friday evening. An energetic committee is now hard at work on last minute details that will undoubtedly make the 1933 presentation an outstanding success. The proceeds will be devoted to the funds of St. Louis College.

Some well-known local artists will be seen in typical Irish songs and dances. Little Miriam Schwabe, always a favorite with local audiences, will give a spirited tap dance, with a decided Irish flavor. The pupils of Miss Violet Fowkes, attired in smart costumes, will appear in a number of new dances. Those billed to sing include Mrs. Florence Gunn, Fred Wright, Fraser Lister, Mrs. Adele Ramsay and Edith Mayall. They have chosen Irish selections that have long been famous in vocal repertoires for concerts in honor of St. Patrick.

Not the least part of the programme will be supplied by the pupils of St. Louis College. The choir will be heard in a number of selections. Several of the boys will be seen in Irish step dances and reels, and there will also be a physical culture display that promises to be spectacular.

Frank J. Sehl is in charge of arrangements for the concert, assisted by George Brady and Frank Doherty. A pleasing feature of the concert will be the presentation of living pictures under the direction of Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan. They will be colorful and picturesque, and will fairly breathe the spirit of Erin.

Catholic Women Plan Activities

The March meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held Monday evening in the library of the Bishop's House with the president, Mrs. W. C. McManus, in the chair. Mrs. Blair Reid acted as recording secretary. Mrs. O'Connell having tendered her resignation, which was regretfully accepted. Mrs. O'Neill read letters from St. Vincent de Paul Society thanking the league for a donation, and a letter from the family of the late Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna. Mrs. Masarati reported for hospital visiting at St. Joseph's, and Mrs. E. F. Radiger for the Jubilee Hospital. Both reports were very satisfactory and received with thanks. Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Hood will visit St. Joseph's during the coming month, and Mrs. Beneman will visit the Jubilee.

Mrs. E. M. Cavin, treasurer, showed a satisfactory balance in the bank and national obligations and accounts were ordered paid. Miss H. O'Brien announced that on March 28, in the Parish Hall, View and Blanshard Streets, the Diocesan Subdivision Catholic Women's League will entertain the mothers of the Sunshine Camp at tea. Miss O'Brien also gave an excellent report of her social service work during the month. Mrs. McLernan reported a satisfactory result from the sale of home cooking. Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. A. Cannon and Mrs. J. D. Kissinger were appointed a committee of three to receive nominations for the annual election of officers to take place at the meeting on April 10. All names are required to be sent in before the first of the month.

Your Baby and Mine

BE SURE CHILD'S NIGHT MEAL IS FILLING

The evening meal for children is an important one for it must of necessity furnish nutrition for many long hours. Most of the mistakes mothers make in mapping out diets have to do with this one meal. Again and again otherwise well-fed children are sent off to bed with a meal inadequate to insure their sleeping soundly all night, or are overstuffed as to keep them turning and twisting in that state which is neither waking nor sleeping.

WORRIED ABOUT DIET

Mrs. G. R. S. says her two-year-old weighs twenty-five pounds, sleeps the round of the clock at night and two hours in the daytime. She has cut her teeth without trouble and is well trained. Yet, to the mother, she does not "look like other children," and she is worried for fear the child is not getting the right food.

The child's present diet is as follows: At 7.30 she gets about one cup of cereal cooked in milk and served with milk. The mother adds in parenthesis that the child refuses to drink milk in any other way. At 10 a.m. she has a cupful of orange juice and usually an apple. At 12.30 she eats a plate of vegetable soup, or vegetables, potato with meat gravy, and a dessert (kind not mentioned). At 5.30 she goes to bed after eating a dish of pudding and some fruit.

"IS IT ALL RIGHT?"

She has butter in her cereal. Eggs she vomits unless they are scrambled, and she does the same when given cod liver oil. "What do you think of this? Is her diet all right as far as it goes?" asks the mother.

To which I might reply facetiously that the diet does not go far enough.

Breakfast is all right, but one cupful of cereal is a lot. The orange juice is fine at 10 a.m., but why the apple? That makes a great deal of food for a midmeal.

INCREASE NOON MEAL

Since she does not drink milk, lunch should consist of meat, fish, chicken or cheese. She is showing some sensitivity to both milk and eggs, refusing one and vomiting the other, so that if egg is served, a hard cooked one would be preferable. Milk should be boiled or served in food. You might find that her reaction to dried, or evaporated or even goat's milk would be different. The above foods, with vegetables, bread and butter, and cooked milk dessert, should suffice.

Her night meal is the poorest one. Pudding and fruit sauce seem a strange combination. Give her cereal at this meal, too, using the whole grain types of wheat, oats, barley, or rice. Then you may cook that discarded apple, or any other fruit, to serve with this meal. These additions to the noon meal and the improvement of the bedtime one should end any anxiety about the child's appearance.

To-morrow: "Let Child Satisfy Curiosity in Your Presence."

Horoscope

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1933

According to astrology this is not an important day in planetary direction. The later hours, however, should be more lucky than those of the morning.

There is a promising sign for initiative of every sort. Activity is recommended in all lines of effort.

Trade should be fairly good, as a wave of reviving business slowly traverses the continent from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific.

Lawyers and men whose counsel is valuable are subject to a sway making for great demand in matters where advice is needed.

Fame for statesmen previously little declaimed, is foreshadowed. The recognition of new national leaders is forecast.

The younger generation is to supply both men and women of college training who will aid in assuring progress for the nation.

Warning is given that the rising public men may be at first judged as radical, but they will prove their ability, astrologers predict.

This is not a favorable rule under which to sign important contracts of any sort—even the marriage contracts may prove disappointing.

Sweeping economies in governmental salaries and expenditures are presaged. The people's business will be conducted with the methods profitable in private enterprise, the seers prophesy.

Women should pay chief attention to home ties and domestic affairs at this time which is not favorable for large ambitions.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of advancement and good friends in business and professional interests.

Children born on this day probably will be practical in aims and at the same time talented and intellectual.

James Madison, fourth President of the United States, was born on this day, 1751. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include William Byrd, 1674, founder of Richmond, Virginia; Jethro Wood, 1744, inventor of a cast-iron plow.

The Man Hunters

By MABEL McELLIOTT

(Copyright by NEA Service)

"You be good now!" she admonished. "do just as you're told and you'll be fat and sassy in no time at all." Aunt Jessie promised with unexpected meekness.

"I feel easy about you as long as you're staying with the Miltons," she said.

Susan dashed to the platform, stepping off just before the train began to move. She ran after it, waving for a minute or two. Then suddenly it dwindled into a mere speck along the track. She felt forlorn.

She was quite alone now. Was it or was it not a bad omen that the expected telephone call had failed to come through before she left the house? She felt now that she could not possibly wait to know of Ben's condition until returning home. She stopped at a pay station and called the number of Heath's club. After a long wait during which her heart palpitated frighteningly she heard his voice.

"How is he?" she asked fearfully.

"He had a bad night," Heath told her, "and he's running a high fever, but Blake says it's not alarming and you're not to worry."

"Where are they keeping him?" Susan wanted to know. Heath mentioned the name of a small, private hospital.

"It's going to be alright," he told her cautiously. "There's no need to worry. Blake has fixed everything."

Susan understood and was grateful, but she was not entirely reassured about Ben's condition. A high temperature might mean many things. She never knew how she got through that day. It was a godsend to have the task of straightening the house after Aunt Jessie's departure. There were innumerable little things to do but as Susan went about these tasks she listened apprehensively for the telephone to ring. Ben must get better. He simply must!

At 4 o'clock she went to Rose's home. Mrs. Milton noticed the girl's silence and put it down to a natural reaction following her aunt's illness.

"Your aunt's going to do fine now. Don't you think another bit about it," Mrs. Milton said. "Let's you and I have a cup of tea, lovey." Mrs. Milton eyed her young companion appraisingly. "You look mighty peaked to me," she announced. "Did you have any lunch?"

"I don't remember. No, I guess I didn't."

"Lord love you! Did anybody ever see such a girl," Mrs. Milton said fondly.

"You'd better not go around looking like a ghost or your man won't like it." Mrs. Milton had been taken into the secret of Susan's engagement

The girl flushed. "He won't mind," she said wearily.

Mrs. Milton went about the business of making tea but her heart was not in her work. She was puzzled over Susan. The child didn't look happy. There were no two ways about that. Could she be marrying this old fellow (thus did Mrs. Milton designate Ernest Heath in private) for his money? She dismissed the thought. Susan wasn't that kind, she decided. Nevertheless there was something grieving the girl.

At 8 Heath telephoned again. He said, "If I send a car for you at 7.30 will it be all right?" Something in his tone frightened Susan.

"Yes, of course, but what is it?" she asked.

His voice was very low. "I can't tell you just now."

Simon was too well trained to speak of the events of the night before. Susan rode along wondering what her destination might be. Her heart beat rapidly when she observed they were turning into the street on which she knew the hospital was located. What could have happened. Was Ben dead? She had never known such misery. As the car slid to a stop Heath, who had evidently been waiting within, came to meet her.

"I'm glad you're here," he said with emphasis. Susan searched his face for a sign of what might have happened but found none. She was afraid to ask. She might stave off disaster by pretending it did not exist but she found as she went up the stairs, that her knees were trembling so she could scarcely stand.

"Are you all right?" Heath glanced at her with more than his usual solicitude.

"Ben must be dying," the girl thought. That was why they had sent for her. She was led down a narrow corridor flanked on either side by closed doors. The quiet of the place, the antiseptic scent that hovered in the air weighed on her spirit. Before one of the doors Heath paused and knocked softly. A nurse's face appeared in the aperture. She nodded to him.

"Yes, you may come in," she said "He's awake now."

Susan entered on unwilling feet. She scarcely dared to look at the face on the pillow of the high hospital bed. Ben's eyes were open, staring in her direction. Susan glanced around her wildly. Heath had vanished and only the nurse, businesslike and cool, remained at the foot of the bed.

"You may have two minutes," she said in a matter of fact voice, "and that will be all. The doctor," she added to Susan, "doesn't want him to become excited."

Ben's voice sounded unnatural, strange. She had to go very close to understand what he was saying.

"Sorry, sorry. Terribly sorry," he was muttering. "Wanted to tell you."

Susan bent over him with a rush of pity. "It's all right," she assured him. "It wasn't really your fault."

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Please wait a minute, dear. This is very educational for Queenie."

HOME SCIENCE SESSION HELD

Another large audience greeted Miss E. Frances Thompson this afternoon at the Royal Victoria Theatre where, as director of the Canadian School of Home Science, she held her second session in Victoria. To-morrow afternoon's demonstrations in the Royal Victoria Theatre, concluds the school's demonstrations in Victoria, after which Miss Thompson is scheduled to leave for Calgary, where she will conduct a school next week, and then to Winnipeg, where, the week after next, she will appear in the Civic Auditorium.

At to-day's session Miss Thompson made further researches into the capabilities of General Electric household appliances, including Hotpoint ranges and refrigerators, and was followed with much interest by the assembled Victoria housewives and by the sprinkling of menfolk who have become a feature of the audiences here.

As happened yesterday, Miss Thompson's exhibition of home cookery was what greatly interested the women present and many questions were asked by earnest students of culinary affairs concerning the precise moment when to add an egg and what happens when cake batter is left for a while when the lady of the house answers the doorbell or hearkens to the telephone.

COOKING RECIPES

The correct procedure in the making of such delicacies as epicurean pie and butterscotch cookies was carefully gohé into by Miss Thompson. That her methods and skill were beyond question was shown by the results when the pie and the cookies were submitted for inspection.

Cheese snails as prepared by Miss Thompson proved an appetizing affair, and two-minute chocolate cake caused the most critical to sit up and take notice, for, it appears, chocolate cake is, ordinarily, a serious affair of much more than two minutes. Paradise food caused a flutter among a portion of the audience, and it would seem that a number of Victoria husbands are to be faced at table by this delicious concoction quite frequently in the near future, while an outbreak of caramel pudding may be looked for immediately, now that Miss Thompson has shown how simply and quickly it may be made.

To-morrow afternoon's demonstrations at the Royal Victoria Theatre begin at 2 o'clock and an extra large attendance is looked for.

Uncle Wiggily's Sweet Sap

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggily hopped out into a little patch of woods not far from his hollow stump bungalow. It was the day after the rabbit gentleman had flown high on the kite of Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow and then had come flying low, safetly to the ground, after the Eagle had torn holes in the paper kite.

"Oh, but this is a fine day!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself, there being no one else to whom he could talk. "I think it smells like spring," he said with a laugh. "Oh, how jolly it is to have spring come after a long, hard winter! Ha! Ha! Ha!

Mr. Longears felt so spry and happy that he began dancing under the trees, twinkling his pink nose and feeling very glad.

All of a sudden he heard a knocking at the door. At least, for a moment he thought it was the door, for there was a tapping sound just as when, sometimes, friends knocked at his bungalow door after they had found out the electric bell did not ring.

"Come in!" cried Uncle Wiggily and then he had to laugh, for he remembered that he was out in the woods and there was no door to open, no door to knock at and no place to come in except the open woods full of trees, where he was hopping.

He heard a Knocking

"Ha! I guess I made a mistake," said Mr. Longears, laughing again. "I can't ask anybody in, for I am out and they must stay out also. But I think I heard a knock. I'll listen again."

Bending his long ears forward, the bunny gentleman listened very carefully. Once again he heard:

"Tap! Tap! Tap!"

"That was a knock all right," he said. "I wonder who it is?"

He was not long in finding out. On a tree near him he saw a bird who seemed to be wearing a red cap like the porter of a railroad station. Uncle Wiggily almost expected to hear some one say:

"Carry you' bag, suh? Get yo' all a taxi? Porter! Red Cap!"

But he heard no such voice, and as he looked again he saw that the knocker, or tapper, was a bird. It was the red-headed Woodpecker, a most jolly chap, full of pep and very lively.

"Hello!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"Hello!" answered the Woodpecker, nodding his red head. "How are you?"

"Just fine and dandy," answered the bunny gentleman. "But why are you knocking?"

"I am glad you asked why instead of whom," chuckled the Woodpecker. "If you had asked whom I might have said some poor sap instead of some sweet sap, but the last is the truth."

"What do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Are you tapping some sweet sap out of that tree?"

"That's just what I'm doing," answered the Woodpecker bird. "This is March in the merry spring and at this time of year the sap, or sweet juice, under the bark of trees begins to run. All winter this sweet sap sleeps down in the tree roots underground. But when it hears the call of spring, the sap awakens and begins to run up in the trunk and branches of the trees.

"We Woodpecker birds know this always, at this time of year, we tap holes in the bark so we may suck out the sweet sap."

"Is it good?" asked the bunny.

"Very good," said the red-headed Woodpecker.

"Oh, me!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I wish I were a bird."

"Not all bird have beaks strong enough to drill holes in trees and suck out the sweet sap," said Red Head. "There are only a few who can. But I am one of them, though sweet tree sap is not all that I eat. I often drill holes in trees and catch bugs and worms under the bark. But now I am after sweet sugar sap."

"Oh! Oh!" cried Uncle Wiggily, in jolly surprise. "If this the maple sap which turns into maple sugar?"

"That's just what it is," answered the Woodpecker. "I was going to tell you to take a nail, a gimlet or something sharp, make a hole in the trunk of a maple tree near the ground, let some sweet sap run out and then you could boil it down into maple wax and maple sugar."

"That's just what I'm going to do!" said Uncle Wiggily, all excited like and very, very happy. "What shall I do to start?"

"You must make a sort of sugar camp," explained the Woodpecker. "You will need a little log cabin and a big fire over which to boil the kettles of sap as it dribbles out of the maple trees. It will be fun!"

"Very jolly fun!" laughed Mr. Longears. "I'll get all my animal children friends and we'll make maple sugar in a camp. Hurray!"

So if the tennis racket doesn't hit the snowball when they're playing golf, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's sugar camp.

Why Not a Course In Theoretical Matrimony?

Dorothy Dix

Thinks Forewarned Is Forearmed

Much Grief Would Be Saved If Girls Went Into Marriage As Accomplished in Performing on The Cook Stove As They Are on the Typewriter And If Men Regarded Their Families in the Same Light That They Do High-priced Cars

ONE OF our great universities of learning has established a chair of matrimony and is going to instruct its students in how to be happy though married. This is a long step in the right direction, for there is no subject concerning which the average man and woman are so densely ignorant as they are about how to make a success of marriage, and there is nothing about which they need to know so much.

It is of far more importance to a woman to know the boundaries of her husband's disposition than it is to be familiar with the geography of the whole world, and it profits her more to know the catch work by which she can manage him and make him eat out of her hand than it does to speak all the dead and modern languages. Likewise, it makes more for a man's happiness and well being for him to be able to forecast what his wife will do and which way generally the cat will jump under any given circumstances than for him to be able to calculate the distance to the stars.

Heretofore we have left marriage to Lady Luck, and the result hasn't been so hot, so it is encouraging to hear that now it is to be laid in the lap of the professors. This is well, for marriage is an art and a science, and when it comes to be regarded as one of the learned professions perhaps it will last longer than it does now when it is looked upon as a sort of jackleg job that anybody can turn out in their idle moments.

At any rate, we have reason to hope and believe that the students who have taken a course in theoretical matrimony and come out with their diplomas and their M.A. and P.A. degrees will be better Mas and Pas than the boys and girls who marry on a bet and whose idea of marriage is derived from romantic novels with fairy-tale endings.

So I am strong for including a course in the study of matrimony as a part of the higher education of our youths and maidens. I would even make it compulsory. I would even go further than that and compel all young people to attend a matrimonial kindegarten in which they would be taught how to pick out a husband or a wife, as tiny tots in pre-school schools are taught to distinguish between different colors and to tell the difference between red beads and blue beads and purple beads, etc.

For in marriage, more than anything else in the world, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Most marriages are wrecked before they even begin. They are predestined failures from the start because two people have got together who are temperamentally antagonistic and who have not a thought nor a taste in common. They can no more mix than oil and water. They are as inevitably bound to fight as a cat and a dog tied together.

Yet otherwise intelligent people marry without seemingly taking this matter of congeniality into consideration at all. College professors marry Dumb Doras. Fight-fisted men marry spenders. Ambitious men marry lazy loafers. Puritanical girls marry rounders. Clothes-mad girls marry poor men on little salaries. And they live scrappily ever afterward.

So the first lesson in the matrimonial primer should be: Marry in your own class. Pick out for a husband or wife someone who likes to do the things you like to do and who has the tastes you have. You can have a perfectly grand time pinching pennies or throwing dollars at the birds or stepping out or staying at home or going on a diet or eating like epicures, if you can do it together. It is when the husband wants to do one thing and the wife wants to do another that the trouble begins. Back of practically all the philandering husbands and the "misunderstood" wives is the stark fact that these men and women are bored by having to live with mates who do not speak their language nor enjoy the pleasures they do.

Then I should teach every girl how to cook and run a home and engrave on the plastic mind of every little boy that marriage, like every other good thing in life, has to be paid for, and that it costs a plenty. Then later on he wouldn't throw fits when he found out that you can't support a family on air. These two things, the bad cooking and the incompetence in housekeeping on the wife's part and the man's fury and amazement over seeing all of his hard-earned money go for rent and potatoes and butcher's meat, have killed more love and broken up more homes than all of the major sins.

Nothing blasts a man's dream of wedded bliss like coming home tired and hungry of a night to a messy house and a dinner that would kill an ostrich, and nothing scraps a woman's illusion about being married to a great, strong, noble hero like having him raise Ned over the bills on the first of every month. So if girls went into marriage as accomplished in performing on the cookstove as they are on the piano or the typewriter, and men could be taught to regard their families in the same light they do a high-priced car, it would do as much as any one thing to stop divorce.

And then in the kindergarten of matrimony boys and girls should be taught to be as good sports in marriage as they are in play. They should be taught to play the game, not to give up because it is going against them or because the pace is hard and fast, not to whine and cry or throw up their hands and quit if they can't boss it. They should be taught to play fairly, not to cheat or take advantage and to do teamwork because it is only by working together that they can hope to win out.

And if you could teach boys and girls these elementary things about marriage you would save them a lot of grief later on.

Guarding Your Health

SAFE CUPS AND "BUBBLERS"

Some persons speak about "the good old days," but in some ways the old days were bad days.

I am thinking, for example, of the old-time common drinking cup. This cup, usually made of tin or other metal, was placed beside a faucet or pump; and those who wanted water used it, one after another.

Paper cups are now used at many soda fountains.

Then men of science, and public health officers, began to study the common drinking cup. What they learned has filled many a page in books. To sum it up, we may say, simply:

"The common drinking cup was proved to be a great danger. Germs, some of them very bad ones, were found around the rims. When passed from mouth to mouth, the germs spread disease."

The facts which were brought before the public led to laws to guard the people's health. Railways were ordered to supply paper cups for passengers to use when drinking water. Drinking fountains were placed in office buildings, in public schools, and in parks. To-day the common drinking cup is almost entirely a thing of the past.

Drinking fountains, or "bubblers," marked a big advance over the old system of providing water. Tests proved that even some of the drinking fountains were not entirely safe; but the improved kinds used in most places can be trusted.

Many offices, and some stores are provided with spring water which is kept cold and which may be taken from the faucet with paper cups.

During recent years I have been delighted to observe that many soda fountains supply soda water, malted milk and the like in paper cups. That means saving the public from dangers of drinking from glasses which may spread germs.

It is possible for germs on a drinking glass to be killed by washing them in boiling-hot water; and at least a few soda fountains are faithful in following that plan. On the other hand, those who work at soda fountains may be so much rushed that they cannot take due care in washing glassware. Sad to say, the moisture around the rim of a soda fountain glass makes it a good home for germs. Colds and other diseases may be spread in this manner.

Paper cups are made very cheaply now, and from the viewpoint of those who buy drinks at soda fountains they are a great step in the movement to guard the public health....

Possibility of Armed Russia Not Beyond Conception, Kiwanians Told

Nicholas Van der Vliet Sketches Impressions of 1917 in Country

An armed and disciplined Russia, product of future Five Year Plans, ready to engage the capitalistic world in mortal combat, was not beyond the realms of possibility in the opinion of Nicholas Van der Vliet, son of a Russian diplomat under the Czarist regime, who spoke before members of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

During the course of his address, the speaker said he, like many people with whom he had left Russia, could not regard the existing order without a certain amount of hatred and could not, therefore, give an unbiased opinion. But to his way of thinking, the Russia portrayed by such men as Dr. Will Durant, was more closely akin to actual fact than the pictures painted by other pro-Soviet writers.

The subject of Russia was as vast as the country itself, he said. It was his desire to speak of the country as he saw it in 1917.

The speaker referred to the vast fronts of Russia, saying it was largely through Russia's onslaughts on the Germans in the first few months of the world war which saved France from Germany.

The Russian losses were terrific. The flower of the army was lost. And the revolutionists, ever watchful for an opportunity to revolt, saw their chance.

He graphically sketched the strikes of the street car men in Russia in March, 1917. This was followed by the mutiny of the workers army. Mr. Van der Vliet described the abdication of the Czar and his refusal to the last, to break faith with the allies.

AMATEUR POLITICIANS

Continuing, he described the development of the provisional government, which gradually lost strength to the Soviets. The members of the provisional government had been well-intentioned men, but had neither strength nor experience. The speaker outlined the loss of discipline and order in Russia. It was a sad sight, he said, to see the disorder of the soldiery. Touching on the amateur politicians of the era, he referred to the swing to the left of Kerensky, whose ascension to power led to the importation of Lenin and Trotsky.

He did not suggest Lenin was a German spy, but an opportunist. Lenin was the grand repudiation, he declared. His aim was to save the world; his means, to blow it up.

Returning to his story of the events which transpired while Russia was still at war, he referred to the return of deserters from the German front and the abortive attempt, in July, to overthrow the provisional government.

This was followed by the attempt of a Russian general to overthrow the Soviets in Petrograd. To illustrate the development of the real element in the army, Mr. Van der Vliet sketched an incident in which the influence of the red agitator was shown.

COMMUNAL IDEA

The soldiers had set up the idea that what belonged to others belonged to them. The peasants followed with a cry, "the land will soon be ours, why not use it now."

He did not believe the last chapter of the Russian revolution had been written. To-day everything in Russia was sacrificed to the ideal of the Communist view.

To-day the land had less freedom, less food and less clothes than before the revolution, Mr. Van der Vliet said. He compared the lot of the people of Russia to that of those of the western world.

"I do not think the Capitalist system of to-day can live along with the Communistic system of Russia. I am afraid their conflicts in ideas may lead to a conflict in arms," the speaker said. It might be well, he continued, to teach the young people of this country that the undesirable features of the Capitalist system could not be overcome in a day in order to counteract the influences of current events which were breaking their faith in the existing order, he concluded.

GROUP MEMBERS ADDRESS CLUB

Some of the achievements of the Oxford Group Movement were outlined briefly to members of the Kiwanis Club by Reginald Holme, Oxford, and H. Viney, Cambridge, members of the group team now in the city, in short talks at the club's luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Holme told the clubmen the movement believed in world changing through life changing. And it did not lose its sense of humor in the process, he added. Speaking of its work in Africa, Mr. Holme stated it had proved the solution of the native problem. The movement had also been beneficial in Geneva and Washington. An army leader in the United States had told him it was either the movement or the army for that country.

Mr. Viney stated through his contact with the movement he had found a plan of life.

Seeing more and more people, gaining a new confidence in God, he believed the movement was an answer to the problems of the day.

Good Programme Enjoyed By Club

Members of the Pro Patria branch Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., and their guests enjoyed a splendid smoking concert in the club's auditorium Monday evening when they were entertained by members of the Emma Alexander's orchestra, including Virgil Robinson, blind pianist, and Joseph Peterson and H. Sturtzel, accordion and violin players.

Among the artists who contributed to the programme were B. Browne, Frank White, Alex Dobie, D. Crawford, Jack Harper, Clifford Martin and Charles Coleman. Jack Harper's whistling solos were greeted with rounds of applause, and Alex Dobie's old-time melodies were also popular.

James A. McCahill was chairman, and kept the show going in excellent fashion. At the close, the orchestra played various popular songs and the audience joined in the chorfuses.

BRITISH FILM AT DOMINION

"After the Ball" Stars Esther Ralston and Basil Rathbone in Leading Roles

"After the Ball," the new Gaumont-British super made at Shepherd's Bush, is now at the Dominion Theatre.

"After the Ball" is a sparkling comedy of diplomats' doings at Geneva. As a satire it is a brilliant piece of work, although it cannot, by any means be called vindictive. It is just a gentle, good-humored dig. Splendidly produced, "After the Ball" is a lightsome piece of entertainment, full of bright and witty dialogue, comic situations brought about by a well-conceived story, and a cast that includes Esther Ralston, Basil Rathbone, Marie Burke, Jean Adrienne and Clifford Heatherley. It is the second large-scale production from Shepherd's Bush, London, production of it having actually overlapped "Rome Express."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

"Sherlock Holmes" not only gets his man but gets his woman in the new Fox picture of that name now playing at the Playhouse Theatre with Clive Brook in the role of the great criminologist. Ernest Torrence appears as "Moriarty," the super criminal, and Reginald Owen enacts the role of "Dr. Watson." The leading feminine role is portrayed by Miriam Jordan. A cast including Herbert Mundin, Stanley Fields, Howard Leeds, Alan Mowbray and Roy D'Arcy, supports the principal players. The direction is by William K. Howard.

MOVIE WRITER BEFORE COURT

Associated Press

Los Angeles, March 15.—Final proceedings in the case of John V. Farrow, Australian film writer, indicted on charges of making false statements in an immigration document, were set yesterday for March 25 by Federal Judge Harry A. Holizer.

Farrow entered a plea of nolle contendere to the indictment, admitting a technical violation of regulations but denying criminal intent.

At a brief hearing yesterday, Farrow told the court he had not been permitted to have an attorney of his own choosing when he was examined at the time of his arrest several weeks ago. Judge Holizer then delayed sentence, pending a report by probation officers.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Every gown which Lily Damita, the beautiful and mysterious Parisian star, wears in the First National picture, "The Match King," is a new creation of the most exotic type, designed especially for her by the famous studio modiste, Orry-Kelly. She wears more than twenty-seven creations in her current picture in which she is featured with Warren William, and which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

Senator Advocates Compulsory Voting

Canadian Press

Ottawa, March 15.—Compulsory voting was urged in the Senate yesterday by Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, as one of several steps which would improve the conduct of elections in Canada and reduce the necessity for campaign funds and the temptations to corruption.

Other steps proposed by the veteran Parliamentarian were Sunday elections, permanent returning officers, and government registration and notification of voters.

ALBERTA AUTO INSURANCE

Edmonton, March 15. (Canadian Press)—The Alberta Legislature in committee of the whole yesterday approved new automobile insurance legislation which will bring this province into uniformity with the other provinces in this sphere. Under the new act every car owner's policy must insure the person whose name is on it and every other person who, with the owner's consent, uses the automobile. It also provides any person injured through negligent operation of the auto has a right, on getting judgment, to receive money from the insurance.

Empire To Show British Picture

The opening to-morrow at the Empire Theatre of the latest British and Dominions' film, "Say It With Music," featuring the popular Jack Payne and his band, should undoubtedly prove an interesting occasion.

This film is not merely a jazz musical story. It uses as its theme the dramatic history of the Irving Berlin number, "Say It With Music," which is famous throughout the world as Jack Payne's signature tune.

Percy Marmont plays the part of Philip Weston, the composer of "Say It With Music," and a war-time pal of Jack Payne's. The story goes that one day, in the Air Force mess, Jack is thumping out some popular war-time melodies, and Weston requests him to stop making such a horrible noise. Jokingly, Jack makes a bet that Weston cannot, on the spur of the moment, compose and play anything more "catchy." Weston sits at the piano and slowly picks out a tune that eventually all the boys hum or whistle.

Realizing that there is a worthwhile melody in Weston's composition, Jack dots the notes down on the back of an old envelope.

A Zeppelin raid puts a stop to their playing and in the ensuing battle Weston's plane crashes. He suffers concussion and loss of memory.

Years pass before "Say It With Music" becomes famous and Payne cannot trace Weston.

The eventual meeting between Payne and Weston is dramatic, particularly as the latter remembers nothing about his war-time melody and the post-war result. How Payne brings about Weston's complete recovery and gets him recognition makes splendid entertainment.

Joseph Szigeti Will Play Here

When Olin Downes described Szigeti as "an individuality—a violinist whose art is more than an episode of a season," he foresaw what a lofty, almost isolated position this artist was to reach in the musical life of the world.

Szigeti is not like any other violinist before the public and it is safe to add that he has never had a counterpart. He is first of all, a musician, and his musicianship is expressed by consummate mastery of his instrument. He has been unwilling to play unworthy music, or to indulge in spectacular but unmusical tricks, and his reward has been the constant esteem of all fellow musicians and of his listeners. Szigeti will play for the first time in Victoria Monday, March 27, at the Shrine Auditorium. His recital will be under the auspices of Mrs. J. O. Cameron, to whom cheques for mail orders should be made out, in care of Kent's Music Company, where mail orders are now being received and where the plan of seats may be seen. The box office will open at Kent's next Monday at 10 o'clock.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Blessed Event," Warner Bros.' screen version of the stage hit by Manuel Seff and Forrest Wilson, which is at the Capitol Theatre, is labeled the greatest and most authentic of the columnist dramas.

The chief justice, however, ruled that Mr. Sinnott had had valuable experience with his own furnace and could testify.

Mr. Sinnott then went on to tell how one Sunday in February last he put a good fire in his furnace and went upstairs.

"All of a sudden there was an explosion and the flames came right up through the grating of the register in the floor and the house filled with smoke," Mr. Sinnott testified. "Had there been anything on top of the grating it would have taken fire."

Mrs. Eve took the stand this morning for a short time in her husband's defence. The feature of her evidence was her report of the remarks of W. J. Drysdale, the contractor, called to the stand yesterday by the prosecution. She told of Mr. Drysdale coming to the house and his examination.

"Mr. Drysdale said he had found where the fire came from," Mrs. Eve continued. "'Oh, I see where your fire came from,' he said. "'It came from the corner of the furnace,'" he said, pointing to where it led up to the dining room."

HEAT FAST AND FIERCE

To the chief justice, Mrs. Eve replied she was not surprised from her knowledge of her own house to hear that the fire had started in that way, as often heat had come up fast and fierce from this furnace.

In his address to the jury at the opening of the defence, Mr. Maclean pointed out how Mr. Eve was a man who had earned the respect of the best people of the community. He also recalled how he had been for nine years a member of the Victoria fire department, and thus would know about the rapidity with which fires spread and the time it would take for the department to reach his house.

Mr. Maclean also pointed out that it was not until after the fire that Mr. Eve was disabused of his belief that his $2,000 fire insurance policy on the home furniture had lapsed because it had not been renewed as a result of the closing of the firm of Christy-Hall and Co., who held the policy.

"Mr. Eve is a cultured man and also quite an artist," Mr. Maclean went on. "He had a panel painting in his house which he had acquired from an Italian and which authorities believed was a real old master, the work probably of Leonardo da Vinci, and if that were the case it would have been worth a great sum of money, probably $50,000. As an artist, Mr. Eve was familiar with the signature of Leonardo da Vinci and so convinced was he that the signature on his own painting on the panel of wood was that of Leonardo that he a short time before had had a photograph of the panel painting made to send to Europe to see whether his views with regard to that were correct.

"Now, if Mr. Eve were going to burn down his home in which that valuable painting was held, it would have been the easiest thing under the sun to provide for the safety of that valuable art article."

VALUABLE LETTERS

Similarly, Mr. Maclean continued, Mr. Eve set great store upon his collection of aviation letters, some from men like Col. Charles Lindbergh, and if there had been any intention to burn the house he would have seen that these letters had been removed beforehand. However, none of these valuables had been removed and they had been lost.

"But this man is now in a terrible position because these fire officials after holding an inquisition months after the fire happened, bring this action against him," Mr. Maclean added. "But I think we have enough evidence to bring here to show you how ridiculous it is to charge that this man should have set his house on fire."

At 12.30 o'clock Mr. Maclean called Mr. Eve from the prisoner's box to take the witness stand in his own defence. He testified about his business as Graham motor car representative in Victoria and also in aviation.

Under questioning by Mr. Maclean, Mr. Eve told of the plan of himself and Mr. Kelway to fly to the Kiwanis Club luncheon in Port Angeles on September 14 last. In preparation for this, he and Mr. Kelway had taken the cans of fuel from his home out to the flying field, fueled the ship and returned the cans to the veranda at home.

Mr. Eve also told about planning to clean up the house in preparation for the return of his wife and daughter from Vancouver next day as the house was untidy following a gathering there of aviation friend who had shortly before flown over from Vancouver. He said he must have returned home around 10 o'clock in the evening after leaving Mr. Kelway on their return from Port Angeles. When he reached home the first thing he did was to attend to his dog, playing with him for a while in the hall, as well as oiling the do because he had been scratching. Then he carried down piles of papers to the basement and started burning them in the furnace, throwing oil on them to make them burn as they were in a solid mass which burned slowly. He then started to clean up his hunting equipment in the basement as he was going to the Forbidden Plateau for four days' outing. While doing this, he said, he heard the noise upstairs which attracted his attention to the fire upstairs.

"My first instinct was to get to a telephone, but I could not get to it because the flames were roaring along the hallway," Mr. Eve went on. "My next instinct was to save something valuable and so I went for my daughter's fur coat. I reached it and threw it out on the back lawn. I tried to get to the telephone from the front, but as soon as I opened the front door, the flames rushed out. I dropped down and crawled to get my strong box in the front bedroom. I then tried to get into the bedroom to get letters I had received at various times from various pilots."

In the meantime, Miss Smethurst had rushed up to say she had telephoned the fire department.

After that, he went to remove his three cars that were standing on the driveway at the side of the burning house.

In reply to a question from the Chief Justice, Mr. Eve said no insurance was carried on any of the three cars.

As for the insurance carried, Mr. Eve explained in reply to questions from Mr. Maclean that there had been $3,000 on the house and on the contents another $3,000, the latter being in two policies, one of $2,000 and the other of $1,000. The $2,000 policy on the furniture Mr. Eve testified, he had understood had lapsed and it came as a surprise to him after the fire to be notified by the Crombie agency that it had still four months to run and that therefore he had been covered to that extent in addition to the $1,000 still standing on the furniture.

Harry Francis Davis testified that when he was at the Eve house the day after the fire, Mr. Eve was concerned over the $2,000 fire insurance policy. He told how Mr. Eve expressed himself, when asked about his insurance, as not being sure whether he was covered by his fire insurance policies or not, as Mrs. Eve had looked after the insurance and he would not know just how the house and furniture were covered until she and the daughter returned from Vancouver.

TELLS OF PORT ANGELES FLIGHT

Thomas Kelway, called by the defence, testified he was a partner with the two Eve brothers in the ownership of a flying machine. He told how he and Ernest Eve arranged to fly to Port Angeles to a Kiwanis Club luncheon on September 14. They took cans of oil from the Eve house to the flying field and returned with the cans to leave them as usual on the veranda of the Eve house.

Mr. Kelway related in detail the story of their flight to Port Angeles during which they got caught above the clouds 6,000 feet high and had to cruise for an hour between Port Angeles and Port Townsend, trying to find a hole in the clouds in order to get down. They eventually landed in a field five miles out of Port Angeles.

Prosecutor Moore continually objected to the story of the flight across the Straits and above the clouds as being irrelevant. The Chief Justice agreed, but said that as the story of the flight was interesting and as Mr. Kelway apparently was eager to tell it, he had better go ahead.

Mr. Kelway told how when the plane was landed in the field outside Port Angeles, he jumped out and in a rut sprained his ankle. As a result, when they got back to Victoria after dark at night his leg was hurting him so much that he excused himself from going to the Eve house to help Mr. Eve as he had agreed before the flight, to help him clean up the house for the return of Mrs. Eve and Miss Eve next day.

Dealing with after the fire, Mr. Kelway told how the skirting around the radiator in the hall had been burned. Part of the charred woodwork torn off by Mr. Kelway himself from around the radiator was brought into court.

Also brought into court was a stump of a burned statue which had stood in the hall beside the radiator. Another exhibit submitted and identified by Mr. Kelway was the charred remains of the frame of the copy of the Roman horses and chariot picture.

SAYS PAINTING ORIGINAL MASTERPIECE

Edward Collins, artist and art expert, told how the Eve painting had been left with him for renovating.

"I think it was a valuable painting and it was by an artist of an Italian school," Mr. Collins said. "It was a very good piece of art and I think it was an old master."

Replying to questions from Mr. Moore, Mr. Collins said he did not consider the picture merely a copy of an old masterpiece but an original. An experienced picture dealer had noticed the picture while he was here and offered to buy it at his shop, because he considered it of high value as an original old master, he said.

Mrs. Eve testified about the Japanese image statue and the valuable panel painting and their location in the house. She also testified about the rugs on the floors and the location of the gramaphone records piled behind the door near the heating register.

Mr. Moore examined Mrs. Eve on identification of the remainder of the burned panel painting. She said it could be no piece of ordinary shingle as an artist would not have painted a masterpiece on an ordinary piece of cedar wood.

"None of us know much about that panel painting, except that a valuable da Vinci pamting is not likely to be found in Victoria," Mr. Moore replied.

EXPERTS ON STAND

Deputy Fire Marshal Walker concluded his evidence yesterday afternoon regarding conditions at the Eve residence and told of taking some tarpaper from under the flooring. It had been soiled and smelled of oil. The witness said Mr. Eve had been called to the fire hall, where he had professed inability to account for the circumstance. Mr. Eve said he did not care as far as he was concerned, but did not want his wife and daughter mixed up with the matter, the witness testified. "He asked, 'If he did tell, would he have to go away,' he put away,' and I told him I could give no assurances," Mr. Walker stated. He added that Mr. Eve had then asked time in which to talk to his wife. The witness had not again seen Mr. Eve until the preliminary hearing in police court.

A. E. Whittaker, government analyst, identified an oil sample as 98 per cent coal oil and 2 per cent heavy oil. A sample of tar paper could not be analysed because of the tar in the paper. Asked by Mr. Maclean concerning stains on a carpet produced in court, Mr. Whittaker said they could be caused by fire extinguisher chemicals. He saw no oil stains on the rug.

NEW EVIDENCE

Mr. Whittaker said he had been asked by Mr. Cameron, defence counsel, to analyse tarpaper at the courthouse, but had not done so, having already been supplied with a sample, together with a piece of flooring, by Constable Flander of the Provincial Police. That flooring had contained heavy oil. The witness said he had a sample with him but had never been asked for it.

Defence counsel expressed surprise concerning the flooring and Mr. Whittaker explained he had never been asked for the exhibit or to testify in regard to it. He had expected such questions to be presented by City Prosecutor Harrison at the preliminary hearing.

Chief Justice Morrison commented that lawyers were "only adventitious aids to the jury and myself," adding: "A thing like that might be the turning point in the case. What you are to do with it I do not know."

Crown counsel asked permission to ask the witness for the sample and the analysis and the Chief Justice asked defence counsel's opinion. After consultation the flooring sample was admitted if identified, the result of the analysis being withheld pending identification by Constable Flander.

W. J. Drysdale, contractor, told of repairing the Eve residence. He described the damage and recalled that he had inspected the premises in company with Mr. and Mrs. Eve.

When cross-examining the witness, Mr. Maclean said, "You told Mr. and Mrs. Eve 'you could see how the fire worked up from the furnace?'"

Mr. Drysdale replied: "No; I said I could not see how it started, that I must look at the furnace."

The court then adjourned to the Eve residence on Empress Avenue, to enable the jurors to personally view the premises.

TOLD STORY OF LINOTYPE

Dugald Campbell Addresses Victoria Club of Printing House Craftsmen

Members of the Victoria Club of Printing House Craftsmen met for their regular monthly meeting yesterday evening in the Cairo Coffee Shop, Douglas Street.

The speaker of the evening was Dugald Campbell, representative of Canadian Linotype Limited for British Columbia and Alberta. Mr. Campbell held attention as he unfolded the fascinating story of that remarkable triumph of mechanical genius, the linotype, which completely revolutionized the printing industry.

Originating in the inventive brain of Otto Mergenthaler who, the speaker reminded his hearers, was a watchmaker by trade and not a printer as some might suppose, the linotype has undergone so many developments and improvements that the latest model bears but little resemblance to its first parent, although the essential features embodied in the original have remained.

Mr. Campbell described in detail the various improvements and additions that have been effected. Of particular interest was his description of the linotype company's newest invention, the "All Purpose Linotype," a machine designed primarily for the setting of display work for newspapers and magazines. The "All Purpose Linotype," which is already in operation in eastern cities, marks a big advance in the typographical industry.

Mr. Campbell concluded his address with a number of instructive pointers of interest to compositors and pressmen alike. Several questions addressed to him were satisfactorily answered. G. S. Carr, president of the club, occupied the chair.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speaker.

SMALL PLEDGES MAKE BIG SUM

Greater Victoria Emergency Employment Pledges Total $310,000 To-day

Pledges registered at the Greater Victoria Emergency Employment Campaign headquarters have passed $310,000, Alfred Carmichael, campaign manager, this afternoon announced.

Many of the volunteers have not yet reported the results of their canvass, most of the pledges recorded yesterday and to-day having been received through the mails.

The average value of the individual undertaking is small, most being less than $200, while many run as low as $10.

"The campaign was not devised only to secure large undertakings, though many properties would repay substantial expenditures. The Emergency Employment Plan was organized for the express purpose of encouraging thousands of citizens to undertake small expenditures they would not otherwise make. To that extent it has already been a wonderful success," said Mr. Carmichael.

W. P. ROBERTS
MISS AME WILLS

Mrs. R. R. Grice, native daughter, is receiving the congratulations of her friends on the occasion of her birthday to-day. She resides with her husband and daughter at their home, 1747 First Street. Mr. Grice, who is a member of the Victoria Fire Department, observed his birthday on February 17.

Charles J. Shingleton, Ralph Street, Saanich, celebrated his birthday yesterday. Mr. Shingleton was born in England and came out to Canada twenty-two years ago. He is proprietor and manager of the Popular Cafe on Cormorant Street, having been in the restaurant business here for thirteen years. He is a keen fisherman, putting in a lot of time at Brentwood Bay, and is a golfer and football fan.

Miss Ame Wills celebrated a forty-eight hour birthday on the high seas yesterday. She is returning from an extended trip to New Zealand on the R.M.S. Niagara and it happened that on her birthday the ship crossed the 180th Meridian. Ships bound to the eastward pick up a day when they cross the Meridian while ships bound in the opposite direction lose a whole day. The birthday of Miss Wills extended over two full days, their being two March 14. The Niagara will arrive here next Friday.

W. P. Roberts, 2720 Asquith Street, received congratulations yesterday on reaching another milestone. He was born in Cornwall, England, and came to Victoria from Michigan. He is a traveler for Burns and Company, and is well known about the city and up-Island towns. He has been with the Burns company since 1916. Music is his chief hobby, and he is a popular member of the Victoria Male Choir, of which he was elected president this year. He has one son, Joe, who teaches at the Cobble Hill public school.

NOTES OF THE LEGISLATURE

The application for an extension of building restrictions in Shaughnessy Heights for fifteen years was reduced to ten years by the private bills committee of the Legislature this morning.

The counter-petition of the owners of Granville Street property zoned by the Town Planning Commission as commercial, to have their property exempted from the bill was thrown out. The bill therefore overrides the zoning by-law of the city.

Income tax payments received in February last by the British Columbia Treasury amounts to $380,456, and for the same month last year, $266,879 was so received, Hon. J. W. Jones replied yesterday to questions in the House. Since January 1, 1932, a total of $15,946,000 has been borrowed on debentures and stock by the province, to January 31, 1933: $6,366,664 on British Columbia Treasury bills to the Dominion, and $7,080,026 on British Columbia treasury bills to the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The terms and purposes of the loans were set out, being largely for unemployment relief and refunding. Detailed returns on minimum wage legislation across Canada were filed by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, as Minister of Labor.

At an evening session yesterday, the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature heard a serious plea for amendment to the Shaughnessy Heights Building Restrictions Act, of 1922, to protect those who had invested in the area by extension of residential zone clauses from 1935 until 1950. Detailed arguments for and against the measure was produced before the committee by mainland speakers. Cecil Killam, F. R. Anderson, Mrs. E. L. McKay, J. C. McPherson, Newton J. Ker, George Martin and Fred Long were heard by the committee, which took the subject under review.

CARS CAUSE OF MUCH TROUBLE

A short lecture on the foolishness of youths owning automobiles who cannot afford to run them was delivered by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning when Alfred Thornber pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering and one of attempted entry.

"Time and again I have had cases before me of boys with cars stealing things to keep them running. They need new tires and gas and other accessories, and in many cases it is the parents who are to blame for allowing their sons to own the cars," he said.

"My advice to you, young man, is to sell the car and I should suggest your driver's license be cancelled," he added.

Thornber, with a juvenile, admitted theft of automobile accessories from the Pacific Auto Wrecking Company's place on View Street. The juvenile will appear later.

The pair were arrested shortly after midnight Monday by Constable John Blackstock who spied them running along Pandora Street. Not satisfied with their answers to his questions, he took them to the station and it was subsequently found they had tried to get into the Victoria Auto Wreckers on Cormorant Street.

Thornber's mother appeared in court and explained to the magistrate that the youth had a job which paid him $40 a month and he bought the car for $30 so he could travel back and forth to work.

The magistrate said he would be inclined to allow suspended sentence in the case provided the Attorney-General was agreeable and the case was stood over until to-morrow.

IS LAID TO REST

Many sorrowing friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Rebecca MacDonald, which took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the Thomson Funeral Home. Rev. J. S. Patterson, of Knox Church, officiated. The remains were laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. The following were pallbearers: John MacDonald, Murdoch MacDonald, John A. MacDonald, James W. Pomeroy, Alex. McKinnon and Alex. Moir.

The new arrivals swelled the ranks of the "flying squad" to a score. While they are engaged in preliminary work now in the city, the main part of the campaign will not be launched until next week, when they plan a series of public meetings.

The personnel of the team which arrived to-day follows: Francis Elliston, St. Catharine's College, Cambridge; Donald MacKay, Durban, South Africa; Miss Eleanor Forde, Montreal; Mrs. Grimshaw, Leatherhead, Surrey; Rev. They arrived at 8.30 o'clock this afternoon with two other members of the party.

GREAT PARSNIPS ARE EXHIBITED

E. Webster Brings One Into The Times Office Weighing Six Pounds

E. Webster, 611 Alpha Street, brought some parsnips into The Times office this morning that looked like great aerial bombs. One of these vegetables weighed six pounds and was 30 inches in length, which, it is believed, sets a record for the province. Mr. Webster also had another parsnip with him that was five and three-quarter pounds in weight and over 2 feet long. He had to bring them to town in a potato sack, they were so large.

Mr. Webster, who grows his vegetables from his own seed, says he had some remarkably fine carrots and peas last year. He believes in planting early and already has his onions, peas and beans in.

"If you know the right kind of seeds to plant it's all right to put them in now," he said. "Some seeds will withstand a certain amount of frost."

Mr. Webster, who gets much enjoyment out of growing vegetables, is also an astrologer and phrenologist, and while in The Times office went over the bumps on the heads of certain members of the staff but failed to uncover any family secrets.

SAYS HE WAS NOT DRIVER

Responsibility of Car Owner Raised in Police Court Case

A point in connection with the responsibility of a car owner for the conduct of another person driving his machine was raised in the City Police Court this morning when Charles H. Delure appeared on a charge of driving to the common danger.

Constable Roy Woolsey told the court how he had seen a car traveling dangerously on Government Street about midnight on March 8, and secured the number, which turned out to be that of Mr. Delure's machine.

Mr. Delure said there must have been a mistake, because he went to bed at 9.30 o'clock on the night in question. He admitted, however, that his son also drove the car, and he did not know whether it was out at the time.

The case was adjourned to Friday in order that the son might testify.

The magistrate pointed out that the law holds the registered owner of a car responsible where another person is driving.

Dr. G. L. Milne's Funeral Thursday

The funeral service for Dr. G. L. Milne will be held to-morrow afternoon, under the auspices of the Masonic Order. The cortege will leave Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 1.45 o'clock and proceed to First United Church, where Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson will conduct the service at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

DRIVERS LUCKY AS CARS CRASH

Narrow Escape for Two Men as Machines Hit on Government Street

Two automobiles were in head-on collision on Government Street near Queen's Avenue, yesterday afternoon, but the drivers, George W. Deaville, 644 Gorge Road, and Frank Curson, Lindsey Street, Saanich, escaped with minor injuries according to a city police report.

Dr. A. D. Bechtel treated Mr. Curzon for scalp wounds at police headquarters and he had received first aid from Constables S. Wilkinson and J. Petterson. Mr. Deaville was taken home, suffering from minor abrasions and shock.

Mr. Curson was travelling south on Government Street at the time of the crash. He swung wide to avoid collision with a truck driven by Rattan Singh which turned off Government Street to Queen's Avenue. Mr. Curson avoided the truck but his car came into collision with Mr. Deaville's machine, proceeding north.

Both cars were badly smashed.

In Knox Presbyterian Church, Stanley Avenue, to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be an illustrated talk on Venezuela. This is a very interesting country and will be ably described by J. Lamb, a returned missionary from Venezuela.

Dempsey Says Barney Ross Ready for Lightweight Title Bout

Victory Over Petrolle This Month May Result in Canzoneri Match

New Rule Proposed for Basketball Would Penalize for Booing

THE fighter who stands the best chance of knocking the lightweight crown from the brow of Tony Canzoneri is a tough little Jewish lad, Barney Ross. The former king of the heavyweights, Jack Dempsey, says a bout between Canzoneri and Ross would be a headline match anywhere. Three years ago Ross was just another preliminary scrapper. Since then he has had some forty-five fights, winning eighteen by knockouts, and losing only two or three by close decisions.

Ross, who now hails from Chicago, sprang into prominence after a one-sided victory over Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion. After that he was ranked fourth by the National Boxing Association, following Canzoneri, Billy Petrolle and Sammy Fuller. Barney's recent record seems to warrant a title bout. The other night Ross scored a second-round knockout over Jimmy Datto at Pittsburgh.

Following this bout he took on Tommy Grogan, who was probably a tougher test that Datto. Grogan, during a ring career that has extended from 1925, has scored wins over Billy Petrolle, Johnny Jadick, who lost his junior welterweight title in New Orleans recently; Lope Tenario, Joe Glick and others. Grogan also went ten fast and furious rounds against Canzoneri. to drop a decision. But Ross took the veteran Grogan in his stride, giving away seven pounds. He scored three nine-count knockdowns, and won every one of the ten rounds.

Ross is another U.S. amateur champion who has turned pro to a good advantage. He never entered a gymnasium until he was eighteen years old. A year later he won a place on the Chicago amateur team and went to New York to win the intercity title from Al Santora in Madison Square Garden. He is a protege of Jackie Fields, who recently lost his welterweight title to Young Corbett. Ross has a bout with Billy Petrolle on March 20. The outcome of that bout may win him a title chance.

Many new rules have been adopted for basketball, but now Dr. F. C. Allen, athletic director of the University of Kansas, wants a law passed, empowering the referee to call a technical foul on the home team when the crowd begins to boo. Enough boos would lose the ball game in this way, and it would be a triumph for good, clean fun, or something. "Visiting players," says Dr. Allen, "and especially the officials, are being intimidated, and soon the respectable citizen will not care to attend games." Dr. Allen also views with alarm the effect of the reverberating boo upon the average college youth.

When the fans booed Jack Sharkey, present heavyweight boxing champion, in his younger days, the Boston boxer used to get all heated up about it. He would snarl and scowl at the spectators. But as time wore on, he got so used to it that he very philosophically reached the conclusion: "Let them boo—I've got their money."

The only rival to Joe Brown, the big mouth man of the movies, showed up at the Chicago Cubs' spring training camp at Catalina Island the other day. He was Sam Simpson, negro, who proceeded to put looks of wonderment on the faces of the Cubs by putting a regulation size baseball in his mouth. Sam has been doing this stunt for years, and it is as easy as pie for him. He spreads his jaws, wrinkles his face, and pops the sphere into his yawning cavern.

Victoria Moguls Support Any Plan To End Squabble

DEMPSEY WINS POINT IN WAR WITH JOHNSTON

Jack Secures Permission to Stage Schmeling-Baer Fight in New York

Will be Counter Attraction to Garden's Bout Between Sharkey and Carnera

New York, March 15. — Jack Dempsey has drawn first blood in the intricate battle of wits he is waging with Jimmy Johnston of Madison Square Garden, a promotional duel that may become more interesting than the big heavyweight attractions each is sponsoring.

Dempsey received formal sanction from the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday for his Max Schmeling-Max Baer bout here on Thursday, June 1, either in the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Ground, despite the fact that Johnston, sponsoring a heavyweight title bout between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, had asked the commission for prior rights to all Thursday dates during the outdoor season.

Johnston won a major victory, however, when the commission reconsidered a previous stand and gave formal consent to the Carnera-Sharkye match. The commission had ruled, after the death of Ernie Schaff, that Carnera must restrict his competitive activities to the "dreadnaught class," consisting of heavyweights weighing 220 pounds or more.

There is little doubt that both Johnston and Dempsey are jockeying for the first crack at John H. Fan's none-too-fat pocketbook.

NORTHCOTT HAS RISEN QUICKLY

Left-winger of N.H.L. All-star Team Stars With Montreal Maroons This Season

Packs Deadly Shot and Led Canadian Division Scorers in Early Part of Campaign

Montreal, March 15. — Baldy Northcott, a six-footer built on greyhound lines but dubbed the gander by his Montreal Maroon mates, suddenly became a very much discussed hockey player when sports writers voted him to the left-wing berth on the Canadian Press all-star National Hockey League team.

Long, driving legs and a deadly shot pushed Northcott to the top of Canadian division scorers early in the campaign that is nearly ended. For weeks the left-winger ran wild.

Twenty-four years old, Northcott was born at Calgary but he learned to play hockey at Brantford, Ont., with the junior O.H.A. squad in 1926. Next season he was with Brantford intermediates. His last amateur team was Haileybury seniors, in 1929.

He came here in the fall of 1929. Baldy patrolled left wing for the third-string Maroon line for most of the season scoring ten goals and one assist. Since then he has spent most of one campaign with Windsor Bulldogs, in the International League.

Eddie Gerard, when he took over Maroons last fall, was quick to recognize Northcott's ability. He gave Baldy more work and the lanky young man responded nobly.

Hack Wilson Signs With Brooklyn Club

Reach This Decision Following Session With Sam Davidson, D.F.A. Secretary

Three Solutions Are Available

Direct Affiliation With Dominion Body by Victoria Clubs is Discussed

With a view to getting teams in the Pacific Coast Football Association back into organized soccer the Lower Island Football Association will probably recommend that the British Columbia Football Association "whitewash" all the clubs in the "outlaw" organization, which embraces eight teams in Victoria and a like number in Vancouver. This was the sentiment expressed at a meeting of the L.I.F.A. held yesterday evening at the Y.M.C.A., which was attended by Sam Davidson, Winnipeg, secretary of the Dominion of Canada Football Association.

A recommendation to this effect will likely be forwarded to the B.C.F.A. previous to Saturday's joint meeting at Vancouver between the provincial officials, heads of the P.C.F.A. and Mr. Davidson. This session will be attended by Alex. Marshall, local delegate to the B.C.F.A., and he is expected to support such a policy.

Yesterday evening's meeting was presided over by C. V. Milton, president of the L.I.F.A., and was attended by Alderman James Adam, B.C. member on the board of the D.F.A., Mr. Marshall, all members of the Lower Island board and delegates from the clubs of the Victoria and District League.

THREE SOLUTIONS

Mr. Davidson gave an outline of the action taken at Monday evening's meeting in Vancouver between the officials of the B.C.F.A., P.C.F.A. and himself and also told the local moguls of the reasons for the split in football in this province. The Dominion secretary stated there was three solutions to the tangle, first, the suspended clubs in Vancouver to produce their books as requested by the B.C.F.A. at the time the trouble started, secondly, for the P.C.F.A. teams to play as professional clubs, or thirdly, for the B.C.F.A. to "whitewash" the Coast League teams and start afresh.

It was the opinion of the local officials that the third solution was the better and for the B.C.F.A. to keep a closer check on all clubs if such a plan was carried out.

John Sullivan queried Mr. Davidson as follows: "Do you think the present state of affairs is doing football any good in British Columbia?"

His reply was: "The longer the present situation exists the worse things will get."

Percy Payne, long a supporter of the junior and juvenile teams in this city, asked: "Is there any bright light for football in this province?"

Mr. Davidson: "I think a reconciliation will be reached and the clubs will all be back under the B.C.F.A."

Questioned as to whether or not the four teams in Victoria were suspended from the B.C.F.A., Mr. Davidson said that they automatically suspended themselves from organized football when they joined up with the P.C.F.A. Mr. Davidson said that a lot of criticism had been hurled at the officials of the B.C.F.A. in suspending the Vancouver clubs but it was the only action open to them under the circumstances.

DIRECT AFFILIATION

The Dominion secretary was questioned regarding a separate charter from the D.F.A. for Vancouver Island. In bringing up this subject Mr. Milton stated that football in this city was over-governed. Conditions here would be much better under self-government. Had such been the case the four Victoria teams would never have broken away and joined the Coast League, the L.I.F.A. president said. He was backed up in this statement by the other members of the board.

Mr. Davidson suggested to the Vic-

MEET BLUE RIBBONS FOR HOOP TITLE

VARSITY SENIOR A BASKETBALL TEAM

Above is seen the club the Blue Ribbons, Victoria and Island champions, will have to get over to win the British Columbia senior men's basketball championship. The U.B.C. quintette, champions of the Burrard League, won the lower mainland title yesterday evening by defeating the Vancouver Red and Whites, 50 to 16, to take the two-out-of-three-game series. Varsity's chief strength lies in the fact that every man on the team is a real scoring threat. Their zone defence has stood them in good stead this season, but being in tip-top condition they function equally well in the man-to-man style. Those in the above picture are: Standing, left to right, "Stew" Keate, manager; Jimmy Bardsley, forward; Gordon Douglas, for ward; Ran Matthison, forward; Dick Wright, forward; Gordon Allen, coach. Seated, Tom Mansfield, forward; "Pi" Campbell, guard and centre; Bob Osborne, guard (captain); Laurie Nicholson, centre, forward; Ken Wright, guard, forward, centre.

Hockey Teams Play Without Goalies

Kitchener, Ontario, March 15.—Something new in hockey developed in the Waterloo Juvenile Hockey League play-offs here, when the goalies of both teams were injured in practice before the game started. Rather than hold up the games, both teams played without goalkeepers, using three forwards and two defencemen only. Despite the absence of goalies, counters were comparatively scarce, the youthful players having difficulty in raising the puck off the ice. Only ten goals were tallied, a small number for juvenile hockey.

Penticton Takes Basketball Title

Penticton, March 15.—Penticton intermediate A boys staged a whirlwind finish to defeat Natal, 55 to 20, here yesterday evening, and win the interior basketball championship. The Penticton team early wiped out a three-point deficit which the visitors earned Monday night, when they won the first of the two-game series, 43 to 40, and went on to pile up the impressive total that gave them the title and the right to meet the Victoria Beavers, coast champions, in the B.C. final.

Defeat Varsity 23 to 7 for B.C. Women's Senior A Basketball Championship

Meet Senior B Winners in Open Series; Victoria Cardinals Lose to Courtenay

Taking a 10 to 1 lead in the first half, and increasing this margin as the game advanced, Dad's Cookies defeated Varsity 23 to 7 in the sudden-death game for the B.C. women's senior basketball championship at the High School gym yesterday evening. This victory gives the Cookies the provincial senior A divisional title and an opportunity to match their strength against the B.C. senior B champions in the open series.

In the opening game the Cardinals dropped a 27 to 19 decision to Courtenay in the first game of a home and home series for the Vancouver Island intermediate B girls' championship. The second game will be played up-island on Saturday evening.

In an exhibition game Frank Shandley's Beavers, coast intermediate A men's champions, downed Slingers, the Island entry in the B.C. senior B championships, 18 to 14.

Kay Freestone opened the scoring in the senior A women's game by potting a foul shot just after the start. Berta Peden then counted a field goal and Kay Freestone again converted a foul to make the score 4 to 0 in Victoria's favor at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter Dot Hudson broke Vancouver's "duck" by scoring a foul shot, while Biddy Boyce, Etta Peden and Kay Freestone scored field baskets for Victoria.

POWERFUL ATTACK

In the third quarter the Cookies put on their heavy offensive and scored nine points to their opponents' four. Berta Peden was continually wide open under the basket and made very few mistakes with her shots. With a 19 to 4 lead at the end of the third quarter the locals were content to play a defensive game in the final eight minutes, only scoring another four points while Varsity collected three.

Tommy Macedo refereed.

SELKIRKS WIN OVER FALCONS

Capture Manitoba Senior Amateur Hockey Championship by 3-to-0 Victory

Winnipeg, March 15.—Selkirk fishermen yesterday evening won the Manitoba senior hockey championship by defeating Falcons, 3 to 0, to take a two-out-of-three-game series. They meet Fort William at the Lakehead Saturday in the Allan Cup playdowns.

Held scoreless in the first period the hard-skating fishermen broke loose in the second and scored all their goals. Arch Creighton, young right wingman, made the opening for the first goal. He broke away with Gordie Hayes when three Falcons were trapped behind the Selkirk blue line, swerved around big Roy Hinkel and then passed to Hayes, who cut around the other Falcon defenceman and coasted right in on Goalie Bud Simpson.

Before the cheering had stopped "Duke" Campbell, left winger, added another goal for the Fishermen. He scored on a solo effort after picking up a loose puck inside the opposing blue line. Wiry "Bud" Hammond drove in the third and last goal when Falcon defencemen let him have a perfect opening.

North Battleford, Sask., March 15.—The Unity intermediate hockey team, champions of Saskatchewan, will carry a one-goal lead over Luscar, Alberta Indians, intermediate champions of Alberta, into the second and final game to decide the intermediate championship of western Canada, due to their winning yesterday evening's game here, 2 to 1.

The game was exceptionally clean, only four minor penalties being handed out by Referee Claude Small, Saskatoon, all for tripping and all in the first period. All goals were scored in the final period.

Regina, March 15.—Armed with a two-goal lead as a result of their 3 to 1 Monday night victory over Calgary Jimmies, Regina Pats meet up with the Alberta junior champions again tomorrow night instead of to-night, as originally planned, to settle which of the two aggregations meets the winners of the Brandon-Port Arthur series for the western Canada junior hockey championship.

Ottawa, March 15.—Rideaus, defeating Shamrocks, 3 to 1, here yesterday evening, won the Ottawa Senior City League title and the right to meet Brockville Magedomas in the Ottawa and district final, the survivors of which will participate in the Allan Cup playdowns.

No Sunday Sport In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa., March 15.—The Pennsylvania Senate yesterday defeated, 26 to 24, the Schwartz House bill to permit Sunday afternoon outdoor sports.

The vote was the first ever taken in the Senate on major amendments to the 139-year-old Sunday blue law.

The fight, with city lined up against rural communities, had attracted nation-wide attention. Major league schedules were held back pending the vote. Philadelphia has two major league clubs and Pittsburgh one.

B.C. Boxing And Wrestling Title Tourney Sought

Y.M.C.A. Hopes to Hold Provincial Amateur Championships in April

Plan Preliminary Card Next Week

Support of Next Week's Bouts May Decide Question of Staging Major Event

As a preliminary move to the probable staging of provincial amateur boxing and wrestling championships here some time next month, the Y.M.C.A. Boxing and Wrestling Club will hold an amateur show in the Pacific Stadium next Tuesday evening. Providing sufficient funds are raised and enough enthusiasm is shown in the card next week, the British Columbia title events will virtually be assured for the city, it was announced by leading simon-pure fighters and grapplers to-day.

Six boxing and two mat bouts will be included on the programme. The matches will bring together the leading amateurs of greater Victoria and Sidney. All encounters promise to be exceptionally keenly contested and followers of the game may look for plenty of action as the boys clash in their respective classes. It is expected all city champions will perform on the card as well as Victoria High School aces and stars of the North Saanich Service Club.

MAY DECIDE ISSUE

In view of the fact the staging of provincial championships here will hinge very largely on the patronage given the card, it is hoped sportsmen of the city will rally to its support.

Sanction for the British Columbia tournament is now being sought. Only the expenses connected with the staging of the matches are expected to stand in the way of its promotion here. Should the tourney be awarded to Victoria, it would be the first in five years held in this city.

Expecting an exceptionally heavy list of entries, those anticipating the staging of the bouts are figuring on making it a two-night stand. The Fifth Brigade, J.B.A.A., Tillicum Club, V.I.A.A. and Y.M.C.A. are expected to furnish the chief local contenders, while strong representations are expected from Vancouver and New Westminster clubs, whose fighters hold seven of the B.C. crowns.

It is expected all champions will be out to defend their laurels, but it is confidently believed they will face far stiffer opposition this year than last, owing to the strength of the Victoria and Lower Island talent that has been developed during the last twelve months.

Up-island centres are also expected to send men down for the battles.

Montreal Maroons' Star Dispatches Bun Cook From Leaders in N.H.L.

Bill Cook Still Enjoys Eight-point Margin; Three Tied for Second

Toronto, March 15.—Hooley Smith, pivot of Maroons' first-string line, displaced Bun Cook in the ranks of the leading scorers in the National Hockey League with a point-making splurge in the last week. Fight Brings End To Wild N.H.L. Game On Boston Ice

Gorman Pulls His Chicago Team Off Ice After Set-to

Manager of Black Hawks and Referee Stewart Battle Over Disputed Goal

Boston Awarded Game by Forfeit

New York Rangers Held to Draw by Lowly Ottawa; Maroons Whip Canadiens

Something new went down on National Hockey League records to-day as Boston Bruins were credited with the first forfeited game in many seasons, aftermath of one of the wildest of Boston's many wild games. Yesterday evening Tommy Gorman waved his Chicago Black Hawks from the ice after he had tangled with referee Bill Stewart in the overtime period. Boston had a 3 to 2 lead.

Thrust into overtime with the score 2 to 2, Shore started the play that brought the rumpus. His drive started a melee around goalie Gardiner, and in the midst of whirling sticks Marty Barry got to the puck and the light flashed. The Hawks milled around the goal judge, disputing the goal.

Gorman left his place on the bench to argue with Referee Stewart. The pair came to blows and fought until separated by Boston players. Stewart ordered Gorman to the dressing room and the latter waved his team off with him. Boston was awarded the game that placed them in a tie for group leadership with Detroit.

Until President Frank Calder has received a report of the affair, Boston are credited with a 3 to 2 victory.

RANGERS IN DRAW

Pitted against the lowly Ottawa Senators, Rangers failed to keep pace with Boston in another overtime struggle as both teams wound up with three goals to their credit. F. McInenly and Hec Kilrea scored for Ottawa in the first period before Babe Siebert came to Rangers' rescue with two quick goals that tied it up in the second.

Earl Roche took a pass from Danny Cox for another Ottawa goal in the third period but their lead was short-lived when Babe Siebert again started a scoring play with a hard shot. Butch Keeling took the rebound and passed to Art Somers for the finishing shot.

Montreal Maroons eked out a last-minute decision over Canadiens to take the city title. Hooley Smith again led the Maroons to victory, his second-period goal matching one scored by Aurel Joliat in the first and his pass to Glen Brydson in the last minute brought the game-winning goal.

Boston, March 15.—After violently protesting an overtime goal scored by the Boston Bruins, Manager Tommy Gorman withdrew his Chicago Black Hawks yesterday evening and automatically forfeited one of the wildest National Hockey League games ever started here. The score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the Bruins, when the forfeit was ordered by Referee Bill Stewart, after he and Gorman had traded punches. Gorman said he received a punch before delivering one himself. The referee refused to discuss the incident after he cooled down. He ordered Gorman to his dressing room, and police ejected him when he refused to quit the Chicago bench.

The amazing rumpus started when the Bruins went ahead after three minutes of overtime play. Although they had put on a sizzling, sustained drive, they were two goals down until late in the third period. Eddie Shore managed to score the first Boston goal and put over the tying score with only two seconds left to play.

The big defence star also started the drive that broke up the game. Four of his teammates with him, Shore drove the puck at the Chicago goalie, and the four Bruins followed him to the cage zone. Each player on the ice with the exception of the Boston goalie, was slashing in front of the Chicago net, when Marty drove the puck, and it appeared to go over the line.

HAWKS PROTEST

As soon as the red light went on, all of the Black Hawks rushed behind their net to protest to Goal Umpire Reycroft. Defenceman Johnny Coulter rammed his stick through the netting at Reycroft.

Ronnie McKenzie scored for Chicago early in the first period, and Johnny Gottselig caged another after five minutes of third-period play. Still trailing, and with only one minute to play, Manager Art Ross pulled out the Boston goalie, and had six forwards battling, when Shore tied up the game with only two seconds to go.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Chicago, McKenzie (Jenkins), 6.25. Penalties: Lamb, Barry, McFayden.

Second period—No score. Penalties: McFayden (2), Heximer.

Third period—2, Chicago, Gottselig (McKenzie), 5.53; 3, Boston, Shore, 14.47; 4, Boston, Shore (Clapper-Barry-Stewart), 19.50. Penalties: Shore (2), Coulter, Lamb, McFayden.

Overtime period—5, Boston, Barry Beattie-Clapper), 3.13. Penalties: None.

New York, March 15.—The New York Rangers and Ottawa Senators locked an exciting finish on what started out to be a dull National Hockey League game yesterday evening and wound up in a 2 to 2 tie after each had scored a goal in an overtime period. The draw failed to improve the Rangers' position in the American division, leaving them two points behind the leaders, Detroit and Boston.

Bert McInenly started Ottawa off ahead with a solo goal in the first period and they held the lead until the third, when Babe Siebert staged a one-man outburst that knotted the count. The Senators picked up a 2 to 0 lead in the second minute of the period when Allen Shields and Hec Kilrea broke away from a Ranger assault and the latter rammed home a rebound shot.

The chunky Babe evened that up by scoring twice in thirty seconds. A four-man pass paved the way for one counter and he promptly split the defence for another.

The penalty to Ching Johnson opened the way for Earl Roche to put the Senators out in front again early in the overtime and once more Siebert cut loose to even things up. He started the play which Art Somers finished with the tying goal.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Ottawa, McInenly, 11.40. No penalties.

Second period—No score. Penalties: McInenly, E. Seibert.

Third period—2, Ottawa, Kilrea (Shields), 1.18; 3, Rangers, A. Seibert (Dillon-Murdoch-Somers), 5.23; 4, Rangers, A. Seibert (Dillon), 5.35. Penalty: A. Seibert.

Overtime—Ottawa, E. Roche (Cox), 3.33; 6, Rangers, Somers (A. Seibert-Keeling), 5.08. Penalties: Johnson, Rockburn, McInenly (minors), Shields (misconduct).

Montreal, March 15. — Montreal Maroons won the Kennedy Cup, emblem of the National Hockey League championship of Montreal, with a 2 to 1 win over Canadiens, traditional rivals, here yesterday evening before 10,500 people.

Just fifty-eight seconds before the end of the game, Glen Brydson sniped a quick shot past Hainsworth to break a 1 to 1 tie and give Maroons the victory.

Maroons captured the city title with three wins and a tie in six games the teams have played against each other this season.

There was a stiff struggle right up till the end. The Canadiens went to the front in the first period on an unassisted goal scored by tricky little Aurel Joliat. Then Maroons tied it up in the second period when Hooley Smith rammed home a short shot on a pass from Baldy Northcott. Smith also figured in the last-minute goal that won the game for Maroons, feeding Brydson the pass for his quick shot through the redshirts defence.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Canadiens, Joliat (Carson), 3.40. Penalty: Noble.

Second period—2, Maroons, Smith (Northcott), 15.38. Penalties: Leduc, Duguid, S. Mantha.

Third period—3, Maroons, Brydson (Smith), 19.12. Penalties: Northcott, Joliat, Star.

U.B.C. OARSMEN MEET WASHINGTON

Crews Will Compete in Events at Seattle Course on Saturday Afternoon

Seattle, March 15.—Preparations for Saturday's opening crew race between the University of British Columbia and Washington's first freshman and lightweight crews were completed Monday.

Ed. Taylor and Stork Sanford, prominent former Washington oarsmen, will be the officials. The major event starts at 2.30 with a preliminary race set for 2 o'clock.

The first event will include the second and third yearling eights, the fourth, Varsity and the second lightweight shell.

Tom Bolles' frosh appear to be the favorites, but Loren Schoel's lightweights showed plenty of speed Monday in covering the abbreviated course in 7 minutes 46 seconds.

Schoel announced his racing line-up to include:

Congdon, stroke; Field, 7; Ritchie, 6; Shaw, 5; De Voe, 4; Spence, 3; Marsden; May, bow, and Larkin, coxswain.

The Canadian invaders are scheduled to arrive here to-morrow and will hold a midafternoon workout.

Interest in Varsity circles Monday centred around a major shake-up instigated by Coach Al. Ulbrickson, and discussion relative to the way Washington would travel to Berkeley for its race against California.

Blue Ribbons Meet Sparlings To-night

Crack Vancouver Hoop Team to Appear in Exhibition Game at High School

One of the classiest Senior A men's basketball teams on the mainland will perform here to-night when the Victoria Blue Ribbons, holder of the city and Island championship in that division, meet Sparlings, runners-up for the Vancouver senior title, at the Victoria High School gym. A preliminary game between Fosters and Fifth Regiment will start at 7.45 o'clock. Tommy Macedo will referee.

This game should prove a fine workout for the Blue Ribbons in preparation for their B.C. final series against the University of British Columbia quintette on March 18 and 25.

VISITORS' LINE-UP

The outstanding player on the visiting club is Jack Purves, their elongated centre. He stands six feet four inches and in league games has been averaging around twelve points.

Some highlights on the remainder of the team follow:

Russ Kennington, forward; boasts of plenty of speed and is an accurate shot from all angles of the floor. Finished fourth in scoring race.

Eddie Armstrong, guard; played on Varsity's Canadian championship team of two years ago, and is a fine defensive player.

Bert Smith, guard; the old original of the squad. He played for Shores in previous campaigns.

Freddy Armstrong, forward; the smallest man on the squad, but is fast and a deadly shot.

Norm Will, guard and centre; is six feet three inches. He is a strong defensive player and played with Crusaders at one time.

Johnny McRae, guard; good all-round player, and a hard man to get by.

The Blue Ribbons will have the following players in uniform: Chuck and Art Chapman, Joe Ross, Tommy Little, Muzz and Lynn Patrick, Johnny Craig, Claude Sluggett and Alf McKeown.

toria officials that it would be better for the local body to have direct affiliation with the D.F.A. rather than a separate charter. In his opinion it was doubtful if the local association could operate a provincial organization of its own owing to the heavy expenses. After listening to Mr. Davidson's arguments the L.I.F.A. members agreed with him that direct affiliation would be a solution to their difficulties and would probably work out better than the separate charter scheme.

In closing, Mr. Davidson made the following statement: "This entire tangle of affairs in British Columbia has resulted, in my opinion, from a lot of misunderstandings."

The D.F.A. secretary was extended a vote of thanks for coming to Victoria for the meeting on a motion made by John Sullivan. Mr. Davidson left on yesterday evening's boat for Vancouver where he will remain until Saturday's meeting.

Good Export Helps Wheat Maintain Its Gains At Winnipeg

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, March 15.—Good export sales, first in more than a week, which were announced late in the session, aided wheat futures in maintaining early price advances on the Winnipeg Grain Market to-day. Given a good send-off by support from Chicago traders, prices held the gains to close 1⅜ to 1½ cents higher.

May closed at 52¼, July 53½, and October 54⅞.

Strong stock markets in the United States were believed responsible for buying by Chicago interests. Export out of Vancouver was estimated at more than 400,000 bushels. Offers overnight on a Liverpool C.I.F. basis showed Argentine wheat at twelve cents under Manitoba No. 2 northern from Vancouver, the widest spread since exchange difficulties began to hamper export business.

The Chicago market which opens to-morrow is expected to rise sharply to get in line with prices here which are now about 3½ cents higher than on the day Chicago closed its doors.

The cash wheat and coarse grains markets failed to budge from the rut of the last few days and spreads remained unchanged in dull trading.

MUCH BUYING IN TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, March 15.—Buying power got into action this afternoon on the Stock Exchange and in a short time the whole price structure was moved into higher ground. Half a dozen leaders hit new top prices for the year. Smelters advanced three points to 69.

The market opened slightly stronger this morning, anticipating some bullish enthusiasm in New York on its reopening day, but after the first wave of buying was over the market settled back a little. It was lagging at the close when the enthusiasm cooled slightly.

Nickel gained ⅞, closing at 10¼. C. P. R. closed at 10⅞ for a gain of ¾. Brazilian had a similar advance to Imperial Oil at 8¾ advanced ½. Pete picked up ⅝ and B. A. Oil ⅛, the latter closing at 8⅛. Utilities were strong. Bell Telephone closed at 80½. Consumers Gas at 178, while both Power Corporation and Montreal Power showed gains of ¾.

Walker's preferred hit 10 for a new high this year, while the common at 5⅜ was 70½. Bank shares were quiet.

Major gains were recorded throughout the list to-day as trading was resumed on Wall Street, it was indicated in the Dow Jones averages. Thirty industrials closed at 62.10, up 8.26; twenty rails at 29.19, up 4.43; and twenty utilities at 24.58, up 3.63.

Sales approximated 3,070,000.

Canadian Press

New York, March 15—Reopening of the stock exchange to-day was marked by spectacular advances and the most active trading in months. Many prominent issues surged up five to more than ten points. The late tone was buoyant.

Transfers approximated 3,000,000 shares.

Norfolk and Western shot up as much as fourteen points, and United States Steel preferred more than ten.

Issues up about seven to nine included American Telephone, Union Pacific, Corn Products, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, American Sugar and Owens Illinois Glass, United States Steel Common rose more than five, and gains of two to five points appeared throughout the list. Late prices were around the best.

The quick resumption of free and normal trading, with rising prices, was a bright contrast to the months of highly-restricted dealings by which trading was started again after the last important closing, coincident to the outbreak of the war. Many stock gains virtually cancelled the losses of the last half of February.

The market appeared to gain much of its initial impetus from buying by shorts who had been locked in over the twelve-day suspension, but commission houses reported that the outburst of covering was followed by a stream of buying orders by telephone, telegram and private wire, with the odd lot business large.

With restored confidence in banks, the government economy programme rapidly developing, as well as legalization of beer, many quarters in Wall Street were inclined to the view that a belated spring recovery in business was in the making, despite the setback shown in such lines as steel production and electric power consumption in the last fortnight.

TORONTO MINES SWING HIGHER

Canadian Press

Toronto, March 15.—A boiling New York market swept the mining exchange listings into higher ground this afternoon. Base metal shares profited especially from the urge to accumulate, while gold shares made only moderate gains and silvers were less buoyant.

International Nickel, helped by higher New York quotations and also the war talk in Europe, moved forward sharply.

The wind-up to-day at 10.25 gave the stock an 80-cent advance, Noranda had a gain of about the same amount. Falconbridge Nickel moved up 25 to 2.75, Sherritt-Gordon 6 to 52, Sudbury Basin 6 to 1.03, Hudson's Bay 25 to 4.25, and Coast Copper 25 to 2.75, while Consolidated Smelters jumped more than $2 to $68.50.

In the gold section Lake Shore advanced 50c to 33.50. Teck-Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves closed with gains of fifteen points and McIntyre held a 50-cent gain to 23.75. Hollinger was up 20 to 7.20.

U.S. ISSUES UP ON LONDON MART

Canadian Press

London, March 15.—American shares advanced in moderate trading on the stock exchange following the buoyancy of Wall Street. United States Steel closed 2½ points higher. Government securities and industrials were supported and gold mining shares finished steadier after early easiness. Bar gold was unchanged in price but bar silver declined ⅛ pence per ounce.

CANNERY PLANTS TO EMPLOY MANY

More Than 1,500 Men Will Sail From Seattle for Alaska in Next Few Months

Seattle, March 15.—Giving employment to more than 1,500 men, Libby, McNeill & Libby will operate ten salmon canneries in Alaska this year, including six on Bristol Bay, it was announced by officers of the firm in Seattle to-day.

Three cannery ships will make a total of five sailings from Seattle laden with cannery workers and big cargoes of supplies.

Carrying 350 men for salmon plants at George Inlet, Yakutat and Kenai, the steamship Otsego will sail from Seattle April 19. This vessel will be followed by the motorship Libby Maine, sailing April 27 for Craig with 100 cannery workers.

On May 13 the steamship Gen. W. C. Gorgas will sail from Seattle for Nushagak and Ekuk with 350 men. On her second voyage of the year the Libby Maine will sail May 17 for Egegik with 150 workers. She will be followed by the steamship Otsego, also on her second voyage of the year, sailing May 23 for Kogglung and Lockanok with 575 cannery workers.

On all of the sailings the cannery ships will have capacity cargoes of supplies for the salmon plants in the North.

The former United States cableship Dellwood, which was converted into a cannery ship at the plant of the Todd Dry Docks, Inc., in Seattle recently at a cost of $120,000, was due to-day at False Pass, Alaska, on her first voyage in her new service. When the vessel sails from Seattle May 10 for False Pass, Hawk Inlet and Stevens Creek she will have 200 salmon plant workers and fishermen and a capacity cargo of cannery supplies. The Dellwood is owned and operated by P. E. Harris & Co., salmon packers of Seattle. The vessel sailed on her first voyage in her new service March 6.

Victorians To Visit Chicago

A party of Victorians, under the personal supervision of Dr. Clem Davies, will be among the thousands of visitors in Chicago this summer to see the World's Fair. Plans are now being made for the conducted trip by Eric Marshall, local representative of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad.

If there is a sufficient number of people a special train will be run out of Seattle direct to Chicago. The present schedule shows that the party will leave Victoria on the afternoon steamer of July 8 for Seattle, entraining that night for the east and reaching Chicago on July 11. The visitors will remain there until the evening of July 17, and are expected back in Victoria on the morning of July 20.

Manitoba's metal production for 1932 included approximately 52,000,000 pounds of copper and 42,000,000 pounds of zinc.

Skeena Returns Here Next Week

Returning from her annual training cruise to southern waters, H.M.C.S. Skeena, Commander George C. Jones, R.C.N., is expected to return to her base in Esquimalt Harbor on the morning of Friday, March 24, according to word given out at the Naval Barracks this morning.

To-day the Skeena is en route from Las Paz to San Pedro. She is due at the Californaa ports on Friday and will remain there until next Monday morning before starting the last lap of the voyage to Esquimalt.

H.M.C.S. Vancouver is now in Esquimalt Harbor, having returned from her winter cruise several weeks ago. She is now preparing to leave on her annual seal patrol to the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

LINERS VISIT DISTANT PORTS

British Due in Honolulu To-morrow; Australia at Haifa; Carinthia at Batavia

Empress of Japan To-day at Honolulu on Way From Orient Ports to Victoria

Honolulu, March 15.—Plans were being made to-day to welcome the world cruising liner Empress of Britain on her arrival to-morrow morning from Yokohama, en route to San Francisco. She will remain here until Saturday evening, and then go to Hilo to spend Sunday before proceeding to California.

This morning the transpacific liner Empress of Japan arrived here from the Orient and will sail this evening for Victoria and Vancouver, with a large list of passengers. A large number of persons who have been spending the winter here sailed for the mainland aboard the big liner.

Haifa, Palestine, March 15.—After a trip to Jerusalem, Mediterranean cruise passengers from Canada and the United States returned here this afternoon and sailed aboard the liner Empress of Australia for Port Said, the terminus of the voyage. From Port Said the liner will return to England.

Yesterday a large party of tourists went to Damascus and enjoyed a picnic lunch on the banks of the Sea of Galilee. Yesterday evening was spent at Tiberius.

A party of thirty persons from the ship have left here to travel overland and rejoin the ship at Port Said next week. They will visit in Cairo and make visits to the Pyramids and the Sphinx and then go to Luxor to see the Temple of Karnak, Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb and the two giant Colossi.

Batavia, Java, March 15.—On her "southern cross" voyage around the world, the Cunard liner Carinthia arrived here to-day from the picturesque island of Bali. She will remain here until Friday evening before continuing her trip to Singapore. Many of the passengers are taking optional tours to Djockjakarta, Bandoeng and Garoet.

Bangkok, Siam, March 15.—On her way to Manila, the new Matson liner Luriine sailed from here yesterday evening. She is on her maiden voyage to Pacific ports and since leaving San Francisco in January has visited the South Seas, Australia and New Zealand. From Manila she will go to Hongkong, Shanghai and Yokohama before returning to San Francisco April 24.

TRACTOR KILLS MAN IN YUKON

Dawson, Y.T., March 15.—Daniel H. McDonald, superintendent of transportation for the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation, met a tragic death yesterday at Bear Creek when he cranked a caterpillar tractor while in second gear. The machine jumped forward, knocked McDonald down and ran over him, the treads crushing his head and limbs.

Mr. McDonald, about forty-seven years old, had been in the employ of the company for many years and was highly efficient. He leaves a widow, son and daughter, the children of high school age. The son is now in Vancouver and the girl in Dawson.

SHIP LOAD OF SCOTS TO SAIL

All-Scottish Excursion to Glasgow by Ss. Athenia in July Will be Popular

Scotsfolk from all over Canada will crowd the decks of the Anchor Donaldson liner Athenia when she sails from Montreal on July 7 with an all-Scottish excursion for Glasgow.

C. A. Whitelock, manager for the Cunard Line at Vancouver, reached the city yesterday to confer with members of the Burns Club, under the auspices of which the local arrangements for the excursion are being made. Mr. Whitelock is at the Empress Hotel today. The organizer for Vancouver Island is Mrs. G. Gedrim, 2617 Fernwood Road, while Al Booth, 622 Hastings Street, Vancouver, is the mainland organizer, in co-operation with the Anchor-Donaldson Line.

"Tremendous interest is being shown in this all-Scottish excursion to the old land, and the indications are that the Athenia will be a full ship," said Mr. Whitelock.

The British Columbia contingent will leave Vancouver by the Canadian National Continental Limited at 3 o'clock on July 2. There will be Scotsfolk in the party from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Chilliwack and other points in the Fraser Valley and Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton in the Okanagan Valley. All the other provinces will be well represented on the cruise.

GALA SAILING

The departure of the Athenia from Montreal will be made a gala occasion. The tartan will predominate and the bagpipes will skirl as the ship clears from Canadian shores for the Land of the Heather. The ship, after crossing the Atlantic, will steam up the Clyde and proceed to the Princess dock in Glasgow, thus obviating the necessity of a rail trip from Greenock. Special tours will be arranged to any part of Scotland.

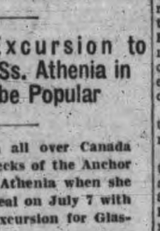

The excursionists will have the privilege of returning to Canada from Glasgow, Londonderry, Belfast, Liverpool or Southampton, and for those visiting the Continent the return journey can be made from Cherbourg or Havre on any Cunard, Anchor or Anchor-Donaldson liners.

TRAVEL IMPROVES

Speaking of general travel conditions for the present year, Mr. Whitelock said that reservations for this season were much better than last year. People, he said, were taking advantage of the low rates of exchange in the United Kingdom. Western travelers using the Canadian and American Atlantic services, Mr. Whitelock added, were planning to visit the World's Fair at Chicago.

Will Build Two New Freighters

Seattle, March 15.—Reports that the Reardon-Smith Line is to enter the refrigerator service between Seattle and the United Kingdom and Continental Europe were strengthened to-day by news of the arrival on the Pacific Coast of Capt. A. E. Tamlyn of Cardiff, owners' representative of Sir William Reardon-Smith & Co.

It is believed Captain Tamlyn's visit to this range is in connection with the new service.

Contracts for the construction of two large vessels with refrigerator space have been let to the Furness Shipbuilding Company by Sir William Reardon-Smith. Although no announcement of the trade in which the new vessels will ply has been made, it is believed they will be operated to the Pacific Coast. The new carriers will be of 9,000 deadweight tons and powered with Diesel engines. They will have a speed of fourteen knots.

SCATTER ASHES ON PUGET SOUND

Seattle, March 15.—The ashes of Capt. Harry Busse, fifty-three-year-old mariner, and at one time captain of passenger liners running to Alaska, who died in San Francisco yesterday, will be scattered on the waters of Puget Sound next week.

Capt. Busse was well known in shipping circles in the Northwest a quarter of a century ago. He was master of many ships connecting Seattle and Skagway. The widow lives in Seattle.

ALUMNAE ELECT YEAR'S OFFICERS

Jubilee Association Reviews Active Year; Fox Fur Drawing Held

Miss J. Moore was re-elected president of the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae Association at the annual meeting held Monday evening at the Nurses' Home. Other officers chosen were: First vice-president, Mrs. L. S. V. York; second vice-president, Miss J. Grant; treasurer, Miss Connie Todd; secretary, Mrs. Alfred Dowell, and assistant-secretary, Miss J. Stewart. Miss E. Newman was made convener of the sick committee, and Miss I. Goward of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Dowell, in her report, reviewed the year's activities, showing that during the past twelve months thirty-seven new members had joined, bringing the total roll to 108. Miss C. Murray, winner of the Alumnae $100 bursary, was now doing post-graduate work at Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

WINS FOX FUR

The treasurer's statement revealed the finances to be in a healthy state, funds having been raised by means of bridges, teas, and the disposal of a fox fur. Miss Mitchell drew the winning ticket for the fur, which is won by Mr. Henly, Duplin Road.

Future activities include the holding of a reunion dinner on Friday, April 28, when the graduating class of 1933 will be the guests of honor; a rummage sale to be held on April 8, and a telephone bridge to be held on May 8.

The alumnae is also planning to hold a tea in connection with the twenty-first annual meeting of the B.C. Graduate Nurses' Association, which is to meet at the Empress Hotel on April 17 and 18.

The proceedings concluded with a social half hour, during which refreshments were served. Preceding the annual meeting was the regular quarterly meeting of the Alumnae.

Believes Sea's Glory Is Gone

Capt. Henry Burke Deplores Passing of Windjammers and Real Seamen

Toronto, March 15.—"Will sailors ever be made again? I wonder!"

Capt. Henry Burke was talking. Capt. Burke, who for nearly fifty years had sailed the seven seas in the days of iron men and wooden ships. He leaned back in his chair, the typical captain, and mused on the days gone by.

"I made 147 voyages to the West Indies, and other voyages to seaports in the United States, South America and Europe. Ninety-two of these voyages I made in square-riggers, serving in the capacity of sailor, second mate, chief mate and master," he said. Most of these voyages were made in vessels owned in Lunenburg, N.S.

"During the palmy days of sail, the docks along the Lunenburg waterfront were very busy. A mass of square yards reached high in the air. Ships were loading and discharging cargoes.

"To-day those same docks are occupied by a number of trim-looking schooners, whose perfect lines place them second to none; vessels of the type of the veteran schooner Bluenose, champion of the north Atlantic.

"But the old square-rigged windjammers have disappeared. The tang of the ocean is certainly gone. Where are all those stately ships? The square-riggers that spread their skysails and studding sails to the northeast and southeast trade winds? Ships that scudded under reefed topsails before the westerly gales, running their easting down in the roaring forties in the south Atlantic, cracking on—making time on their voyages to the Orient.

"Those were ships—they sailed the seven seas; flew their ensigns in all the seaports on this globe; they made marine history; they made commanders and made sailors. Now they have all vanished and the glory of the sea has vanished with them.

"Some of them are lying in different seaports, rust and barnacles coating their hulls. Others have been dismantled and converted into barges. A great many of them have found a last resting place on the soft side of a rock-bound coast. Steam competition has driven those stately old square-riggers off the ocean. Neptune's colleges have gone into oblivion and the day of making sailors is finished.

"Yes," said Capt. Burke, sorrowfully, "the smokestack and propeller have replaced the royals and skysails. Will they ever come into their day again?"

TROLLERS FREE FROM RULING

New Westminster, March 15.—Trollers will be exempted from the provisions of the federal order-in-council compelling delivery of fish to a cannery within twenty-four hours of being caught, according to information received here from Ottawa. The order-in-council stated the twenty-four hour delivery ruling was necessary in order that such fish would get a first-grade certificate after being canned.

The Fisheries Department at Ottawa is reported to have taken into account the fact that many trollers can not carry ice, but clean and ice their fish when they return to shelter at night. As a result, the Department has decided that "such fish shall come under the exception at the end of the regulation for gutted fish and iced fish."

Local fishermen declared there will be a strenuous protest from gill netters and seiners over this exception. They stated that gillnetters and seiners in many places could do the same thing at night as the trollers. It was discrimination in favor of the trollers, they claimed.

Emma Alexander to Sail This Evening for Ports in California

The flags of Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Sweden will fly from ships at the Ogden Point piers to-morrow, when these ocean docks have one of their busiest days in recent months. Two ships are there to-day and two more are expected first thing to-morrow morning.

The Swedish motorship Eknaren docked this morning at 2.30 o'clock and at 8 o'clock dock workers commenced loading 500,000 feet of Vancouver Island timber aboard for Australia. The ship will be here until to-morrow afternoon.

Late this afternoon the Japanese freighter Taian Maru was posted to leave the Esquimalt drydock, where she has been receiving propeller repairs, for Ogden Point. She will commence loading a parcel of lumber for Japan at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning.

To load 125 boxes of local frozen salmon from the cold storage plant at Ogden Point, the British freighter Gaelic Star is expected at William Head late this evening and will dock early in the morning. She will be here until about noon to-morrow before proceeding to Vancouver.

The United States liner Admiral Laws, of the Pacific Steamship Lines, is expected here in the morning to load 110,000 feet of lumber. This parcel will be transhipped at San Francisco next week to a tramp freighter, en route to South Africa.

Bound for San Francisco and Los Angeles, the Ss. Emma Alexander will spend two hours at the Ritchet piers this evening. She is sailing from Seattle at 5 o'clock this afternoon, will arrive here at 10 o'clock and sail at midnight. Passengers from Vancouver will embark here.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

RULING HALTS FIGHT ON FISH

Speaker's Ruling Throws Out Resolution on Salmon Landings

Protests launched by J. Loutet, Conservative, North Vancouver, against a recent Dominion Government regulation calling for salmon to be gutted and landed in twenty-four hours fell by the wayside in the Legislature yesterday.

Mr. Loutet had moved a resolution on the subject and had criticized the regulation on the ground it was unnecessary and placed the fishermen at the mercy of the canners regarding prices.

Mr. Speaker Davie ruled the resolution was based on incorrect and unfounded facts. He quoted authorities and the Meat and Canned Foods Act to support his ruling that the subject was a Dominion one with which the Legislature could not deal.

Mr. Loutet appealed against the ruling and he was sustained by thirty-two votes to eight.

STRAITH HEADS CANADIAN CLUB

Named President by Acclamation at Annual Meeting of Club Yesterday Evening

Glowing Tribute Paid to Work of W. H. M. Haldane, Retiring President

W. T. STRAITH

Ex-Alderman W. T. Straith, who for twenty years has been associated with the Canadian Club movement in Victoria and other parts of Canada, was elected president of the local club at its annual meeting in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

He was placed in office by acclamation as were the other members of the executive whose nominations were submitted by the special committee.

He will be assisted in his term of office by Herbert Anscomb, first vice-president; Col. H. T. Goodland, second vice-president; F. M. McGregor, literary secretary; F. J. Sehl, veteran secretary, and P. B. Fowler, treasurer; as posed of W. H. M. Haldane, John Cochrane, Kenneth Ferguson, H. E. Beasley, Capt. H. deM. Mellin, Colonel J. H. McCullin, P. L. Naismith and J. W. Hudson.

George McCandless was again elected auditor for the club.

VOICES THANKS

Appreciation of the honor accorded him by the membership through his election was expressed by Mr. Straith on assuming office. He spoke glowingly of the work of the executives of previous seasons and voiced his appreciation of the slate named for 1933. In particular he paid tribute to the excellent services done for the club by W. H. M. Haldane, retiring president; Mr. Sehl, secretary, Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Ferguson of the speaker's committee, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, leader of the women's club and president of the British Columbia regional council, and P. B. Fowler, vice-president of the latter body and officer in the national association.

Mr. Haldane thanked the gathering for its co-operation during the year and spoke of the pleasure he had gained from the important office.

Presenting the financial statement of the club, C. W. Pangman, retiring treasurer, told the membership last year had been completed with expenditures exceeding revenue by $23. This had been not altogether unsatisfactory in view of the fact a drop in membership had reduced the income for 1932 by $222, in comparison to that of the preceding year.

The meeting endorsed a resolution leaving all expenditures considered for 1933 in the hands of the new executive.

SCHOLARSHIP

Consideration of a letter from Professor E. S. Farr, suggesting the club change the conditions for the scholarship it donates annually to Victoria College, to cover a wider field, was left in the hands of the incoming executive as were requests for donations from various quarters.

HOUSE DIVIDES ON SCHOOL BILL

Conservatives Differ With Education Minister's Salary Grants

Criticism of Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe's amendments to the Public Schools Act came from both sides of the House yesterday before it was finally given second reading on a divided vote.

The plan to make grants to teachers' salaries on a basis of 1 per cent of the total assessment of the district was the main point at issue, and on the vote being taken, J. W. Cornett, Conservative whip, W. Dick, Conservative, Vancouver, and W. R. Rutledge, Conservative, Burnaby, voted against the bill.

Liberals were also divided in their opinion, T. D. Pattullo, A. M. Manson, Dr. H. C. Wrinch and H. F. Kergin voting against it and their comrades for it.

The 1 per cent on assessment contribution was not fair or equitable, Mr. Cornett claimed. South Vancouver, he mentioned, would receive a grant of $277 towards a teacher's calary where it used to receive $460. The only fair basis, he thought, was on the number of children at school.

Mr. Manson said Mr. Hinchliffe's proclivity for tinkering was upsetting to the educational system. He worked hard but not to good advantage and his sudden changes were shaking the foundations of educational institutions. The sharp revisions of salary grants were not reasonable.

Exhibition Of Craftsmanship

Co-operative Welfare Association to Open Demonstration To-morrow

A practical effort by a number of unemployed craftsmen towards becoming self-supporting and relieving the taxpayers of a portion of the burden of unemployment relief will be inaugurated on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when a demonstration of building construction work, prepared and built by the members of the Victoria and District Co-operative Welfare Craftsmen's Association, will be opened in the old Weiler Building at Broad and Broughton Streets.

The exhibit is in the form of a pavilion which contains every kind of house-construction material. Interior and exterior treatment of all descriptions, stucco, siding, shingling, flooring, panel work and cabinet fixtures showing comparative yearly prices, costs of material and labor and the methods of construction and repair work will be explained to visitors by experienced craftsmen who will be in attendance daily.

The association has been formed to enable experienced welfare men of various trades and occupations to tender for jobs, to supply material and carry the work to completion, their undertakings being backed by a responsible organization which will provide the fullest protection for all persons who give contracts to members of the association. Only men of proven skill and experience are eligible for membership.

Space for the exhibit has been provided by David Spencer Limited. The registered office, of the association, which is incorporated under the Co-operative Societies Act of British Columbia, is at 918 Government Street, Victoria.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

How to Save B.C.'s Millions

By LIEUT.-COLONEL R. ROSS NAPIER
(Formerly Department Commissioner)
No. 7

I have dealt with government buildings in as much as they are responsible for the employment of additional personnel in the civil service, but, before leaving the subject, I must deal with some aspects which will, I think, prove startling to the taxpayer.

It is a general impression that the erection of any building would have to be passed upon by the Legislature, which would have an opportunity of judging whether the construction were necessary and negativing the vote if considered otherwise. This, however, is not the case, and, by utilization of the public works votes, buildings may be erected or acquired on the authority of an order-in-council.

During the last few years the purchase and erection of residences for officials, principally of the Public Works Department, became almost epidemic, several purchases being made in the space of a few weeks. I do not know anything about the former owners, but it is hardly necessary to point out the opportunities for very costly patronage afforded by such an unrestricted practice.

At the same time other residences were being erected, one of which, I understand, cost in the neighborhood of $8,000.

In an endeavor to put some check on what was going on, I made an urgent report to the government on the subject, and, strange to say, succeeded in getting sufficient attention paid to it to be asked to make a full report on the subject of residences for officials.

The subject is an exceedingly intricate one. In the far outlying places an official cannot be expected to invest in the erection of a house, if there is none to be rented, when he may be moved away at any moment. On the other hand, if there be a government residence large enough for a family of eight, an official without a family can hardly be expected to pay an adequate rent for it when he may be able to obtain accommodation sufficient for his needs at a much cheaper rate.

Incidentally, it may be remarked that great dissatisfaction has naturally been caused when officials, in outlying places, who had been compelled to assume a burden of debt to provide residences for themselves, saw new officials coming in and having residences erected for them at government expense.

I made a full report after studying the matter from every angle, recommending that no residences for officials be either purchased or erected, unless under extraordinary circumstances and after the fullest investigation and recommendation by qualified officials. This report was made in June, 1931, but as, shortly after that, the Provincial Secretary informed me that he had a number of my reports on various subjects, over a considerable period, which he had not read and which no one else had seen, I have no knowledge whether it has been considered up to the present time. A REPORT ON ALL BUILDINGS EITHER ERECTED OR PURCHASED BY THE GOVERNMENT IN THE LAST FEW YEARS, WITH REASONS FOR THEIR PURCHASE OR CONSTRUCTION, MIGHT BE OF CONSIDERABLE INTEREST TO THE TAXPAYERS.

It will be contended that the Public Works Department receive rent (whether adequate or not) for residences erected for officials. The question, however, is whether it is either necessary or desirable for the government to tie up large sums of the taxpayer's money in such investments. That it is not desirable may readily be shown by the following instance. In the city of Fernie the Public Works Department acquired a residence for the road foreman. Just why it should be necessary to provide a government-owned residence for an official in Fernie any more than for officials in Victoria, does not appeal. Apparently some change was made to a road foreman who probably had his own residence, with the result that the government residence stood vacant for a considerable period. I visited the Fernie agency, and found, on my arrival, that the government agent had received notice of his dismissal, from the Finance Department. "I may say that the reasons given for the dismissal were untrue, and while the matter did not come within my jurisdiction, I called the attention of the Finance Department to the facts, immediately on my return to Victoria. This, however, was apparently regarded as being quite immaterial. Patronage, evidently, had spoken, and the official having no one to whom he could appeal, remained dismissed.) A government agent from another agency was transferred to Fernie and I suggested, I think, that he might rent the vacant house. This arrangement was made, I believe, but had it not been for the political action of the Finance Department and the sequence of events, the building would have stood empty and might have been allowed to lapse into desutude and ruin. In time the property might even have been forgotten altogether. That such a thing is quite possible is best illustrated by the extraordinary state of matters regarding government properties which I am about to describe.

In the course of my duties as department commissioner I desired to obtain a list giving particulars of certain government buildings and House properties, when it was found that no such record was available in any department. The Public Works Department referred me to the architectural branch who supplied me with a list of certain properties, but, on examining it, I had to point out that various properties, personally known to me throughout the province, were not included. The somewhat Gilbertian situation then arose of the department officially adding to the list supplied to me, the properties, information regarding the existence of which I had supplied to them. There could, of course, be no assurance that a list so supplied, was complete.

On making inquiries regarding occupied buildings I was again enabled, through my personal knowledge of the province, to point out properties occupied, which were, apparently, unknown either to the Public Works Department or the department utilizing the buildings.

I thought that I might be able to apply something of a check by getting a list of government properties from the Lands Department, but the list supplied gave only description of lands without any indication or description of buildings which might exist. Though much more complete, this list could not be depended upon for accuracy, as I was again able, from personal knowledge, to point to government buildings which had existed for many years, and of which there was absolutely no record as government property, either as to the land in the Department of Lands, or of the buildings in the Department of Public Works.

In view of these facts I do not think it is too much to say that properties temporarily unused, especially where there has been a change of local officials, may have been forgotten and allowed to go to ruin. Without a complete survey of all government-owned property, as recommended by me on certain specific lines, it is impossible to say to what extent this may have occurred, but that it has occurred I have no personal doubt, as on one occasion at least I was able to give local officials, particulars of government property of which they had no knowledge, which, through desuetude was rapidly falling to ruin.

Surely it must be evident that from the respective points of view of increased cost of personnel; huge sums thrown away on unnecessary buildings; large sums tied up by investment in unnecessary construction, and grave losses through actual maladministration, there has been an enormous leakage from the public purse, which must be stopped for the future by no uncertain measures. Remedies in detail have been suggested in my reports to the government, which have been withheld from both the Legislature and the public, but the remedies suggested will be dealt with in curtailed form with other recommendations on various subjects, in the concluding articles of this series.
